DEMOCRATIC DRIVE SET FOR OPENING EARLY IN JANUARY

Search by Airplane Begun for Redfern

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Dec. 4.—(UP)—An airplane search for Paul Redfern, American aviator missing since 1927, who is reported living with Indians in the tropical back-jungles of Dutch Guiana, began today when Edward Sill, wealthy timber merchant here, and Art Williams and Harry Went, American fliers, took off for Paramaribo.

Redfern was lost on a planned non-stop flight from near Brunswick, Ga., to Rio de Janeiro in August, 1927.

Williams had had considerable experience in flying throughout Guiana regions. He has done commercial flying as well as piloting the commission to fix the British Guiana-Brazilian frontier. While with the boundary commission he was within 100 miles of the spot where William Larave, explorer, reported Redfern living.

CONVENTION CITIES YET TO BE NAMED

Postmaster-General Freeley Predicts F.D.R. Will Carry Fully as Many States as in 1932.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Making the first formal democratic move in the already loudly rumbling 1936 campaign, Chairman James A. Farley today called the democratic national committee to meet here on opposition campaign plans three weeks earlier.

The meeting will officially set the stage for the intended renomination of President Roosevelt, generally considered a foregone conclusion. The republican national committee already has arranged to meet here on opposition campaign plans three weeks earlier.

The big, ruddy-faced democratic chieftain, who also is postmaster-general, today predicted renomination of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner, and forecast that Mr. Roosevelt will carry as many states as in 1932.

In Full Accord.

In a jovial mood as he greeted more than 50 reporters crowded around his desk in the Postoffice Department, Farley said he was "thoroughly in accord with the President's views" on Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska. Norris has attacked Farley because of his dual role as cabinet officer and party chairman, but Mr. Roosevelt recently urged Nebraskans to keep the veteran liberal in the senate "as long as he lives."

When told of Farley's comment, Norris, who has not yet consented to be a candidate for re-election, chuckled and said he had "nothing to say."

Both the democratic and republican national committee meetings here—the former January 7 or 8 and the latter December 16—will select next summer's convention cities; Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the G. O. P. committee, also has set the December 16 assembly as a rallying time for the move to raise a sizeable "war chest."

Letters Issued.

Meanwhile, J. Kenneth Bradley, director of the young republican division of the national committee, announced today he had sent letters to more than 400 young party leaders in the 48 states to obtain their views on holding public discussion of probable issues. He suggested they recommend to the party "those plans and policies which we believe would most certainly carry out our purpose of saving the people that the government and those benefits which are rightfully theirs."

Farley smilingly predicted the next democratic convention would "just be

BAN ON TALMADGE AT PARTY CAUCUS HINTED IN CAPITAL

Knowledge of Plan To Silence Governor at Meeting of National Group Is Denied by Farley.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Coincident with an announcement today by Postmaster-General James A. Farley setting January 8 as the date for the next meeting here of the democratic national committee, word came from influential party sources that a move would be initiated to prevent Governor Eugene Talmadge, of Georgia, from taking sent as a newly elected member of the committee if he appears to present his credentials.

Although Mr. Farley, who is also the national committee chairman, said he knew of no plans to dislodge Gov. Talmadge, outstanding critic of the New Deal in the south, he said that "a movement is under way for having the Governor's credentials held up until after the later meeting of the national convention."

"Georgians, therefore, are ready to repudiate any such imputation," he said. "It is the belief of Mr. Roosevelt that the Georgia Governor is a true democrat and who should reflect the true sentiments of the state have nausied the voters of Georgia, have inflamed the people against any such unfair practices and have resulted in the loss of respect with which the Governor formerly was held by Georgia democrats."

State Opinion Changed.

The Governor's unfair indictments have caused a wide swing of public opinion until sentiment no longer is with him either in the rural or urban areas. The Georgia Governor, a true democrat, resent any such tirade.

The Georgia Governor has delivered and especially since the Governor has attempted to claim to represent the sentiment of Georgia democracy regarding his attitude to the New Deal and to President Roosevelt.

"Georgians, therefore, are ready to repudiate any such imputation," he said. "It is the belief of Mr. Roosevelt that the Georgia Governor is a true democrat and who should reflect the true sentiments of the state have nausied the voters of Georgia, have inflamed the people against any such unfair practices and have resulted in the loss of respect with which the Governor formerly was held by Georgia democrats."

Would Halt Governor.

By deferring a report until the meeting of the democratic national committee, which elects national committeemen for the next four years, the Georgia Governor could be prevented from using the January committee meeting as a sounding board for his expected further attacks on the Roosevelt administration. The desire to keep the committee gathered in front of the national committee in the face of an approaching presidential campaign is said to prompt the move under consideration.

'TOUCHING' PRIVILEGE GIVEN 'MUSEUMITES'

Sightseers May Press Buttons, Handle Machinery All They Desire.

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Levers were meant to be pressed and wheels to be turned, directors of Munich's Deutsches Museum believe. With this principle in mind they permit visitors to touch every exhibit within reach, to start motors, press buttons that blow horns and clarinets, and even go down into a mine, which is part of the museum.

The Deutsches Museum is one vast exhibit of the history of human progress. There is, for instance, the transportation display, which begins with a canal and ends with pictures of the New York subway. In between are shown all developments in travel on land, water and in the air, with exhibits of roller skates, stilts, bicycles, sleds, horse-drawn street cars, balloons, planes, models of rafts, canoes, wooden steamers, submarines and the great steamships of today.

The exhibits of music are fascinating, for each flute, clarinet and horn is connected with a bellows, and when visitors press a button, the bellows give the instrument a blast of air and sound is produced.

REPLY OF TALMADGE TO F. D. R. IS FLAYED

The numerous flagpoles on the state capitol have branded him as a small man and have weakened whatever influence he formerly wielded within the state.

Slighted President.

"I say the Governor slighted the President. He said he was too busy to attend the Atlanta celebration, attended throughout the day by nearly 1,000,000 of whom were democrats."

"The Governor was not too busy the next day to attend a football game. He must have been too busy on Armistice Day to see that the American flag flew from the state capitol. He was in Alabama engaged in what he believed to be the 'flaying of the New Deal' and the President, I was told, had to wait to see if any flag flew from the capitol building in Atlanta—not even a pair of red galluses, which have become his campaign banner, and which is the only flag he serves."

"So I say that when Talmadge takes the air in New York tomorrow in his nation-wide radio hook-up, as he says, to give 'Georgia's answer to the President,' he would be doing a thing more than just being honest if he would honestly tell the people of the state of Georgia and those of the nation where the thousands of dollars necessary to get such a hook-up are coming from."

"Georgians frankly are puzzled. Talmadge claims he represents Georgia democracy, but I have found no Georgia democrat who was willing to expend such large sums for national radio addresses to attack Mr. Roosevelt and national democracy."

Outstanding Republican.

"In democratic Georgia are convinced that the attacks are republican inspired. We are convinced that if the Governor is not on republican pay rolls, he should be and the republicans are not treating him right if they do not recognize him as the outstanding member of that party."

"Georgia democrats are amused by the spectacle of a Governor of Georgia claiming to be a democratic champion when the country is attacking the President for the sole purpose of feathering his own nest in one way or another—at least we would be amused if we did not resent it so thoroughly. There is a positive resentment in Georgia over the Governor's claims that he proposed to give Georgia another President Roosevelt. Georgians do not associate any such efforts to slander the democracy of this state, and they want the nation to know that the Governor does not represent the state."

"When the time comes, Georgia democracy will speak with a finality which I believe will even convince the Hon. Eugene Talmadge. It will make its choice between the speed-making Governor and the President of the United States and national democracy need have no concern as to the outcome."

Mussolini's Invasion of Ethiopia Brings New Business to Georgia

Marble and Granite Quarries Benefit as Cuban Dealer Visits Here.

JOSE PENNINO.

War in Ethiopia has resulted in new business for Georgia marble and granite quarries. Jose Pennino, dealer in marble, granite and bronze at Havana, Cuba, is now in Atlanta where he has signed large contracts with Georgia producers of marble and granite to supply a large part of the stone that, before the Italo-Ethiopian war and the resultant imposing of "sanctions" upon Italy, was imported into Cuba from the realm of Mussolini. Mrs. Pennino is here with her husband, visiting many of their friends in this city.

"Business conditions in Cuba are excellent, better than they have been in years," said Pennino yesterday. "Restoration of quiet and peace, since the end of the reign of anarchy during the revolution, has brought a feeling of confidence that has resulted in a business boom, on a conservative and a sane scale."

Imports Doubled.

"Imports from the United States during the past six months have totalled $40,000,000, more than twice the amount of any preceding six months of the last six years."

Pennino pointed out that freight shipped from Atlanta today reaches Miami in only five days time and this, he declared, is a great advantage in dealing with firms in the United States.

"Prices here are good," he said, "the Georgia product is of splendid quality and the quick delivery makes it most desirable as a business commodity." One of the largest contracts placed by Pennino in Georgia was for granite paving blocks, which are used widely on Cuban streets and roads.

Sugar Business Better.

Sugar producers in Cuba, he said, are in much better condition than a few years ago. At present prices sugar can be grown at a profit, which was not the case on the low markets which prevailed a few years past.

"All Cuba," he said, "is decidedly pro-Roosevelt. There cannot be shown a picture of the President on a theater stage, in a restaurant, in a bar, in a dancing hall, and cheering like mad and if Cubans could vote for your President I am certain that 99 per cent of us would vote for Roosevelt's re-election."

The Roosevelt policies, particularly in regard to the tariff, have proved of great advantage to Cuba, he said, and the general popularity of the democratic President has done much to promote good feeling.

Tourist business is also booming in Havana, Pennino said. "You can go from Atlanta to Havana."

Uniform Traffic Laws for U. S. Urged by Georgian as Safety Aid

A man who likes to "live in a shack by the side of the road and be a friend to man" paid a visit yesterday to the office of The Constitution Safety Council.

He is Dr. Tom Neal Kitchens, of Warm Springs. He graduated from the engineering department of the University of Georgia in 1888 and for many years was engaged in engineering and road construction work. For the past 50 years he has taken an active interest in transport and traffic problems, but his thoughts, he said, are turning more and more to the human side of the problem, to the thousands of his fellow citizens who are killed each year in needless motor vehicle accidents on the streets and highways of the country.

The exponent of a uniform traffic law is a personal friend of the President, he said, visited him many times at Warm Springs and on one occasion introduced him at a Warm Springs homecoming festival. Otherwise he is mainly interested in being friends with his neighbors and trying to "catch up with his fishing."

Here is a man just like you and you and thousands of other Georgians. He enjoys his neighbors and friends and drives about on social and business calls. But one thing that sets him apart from many other Georgians is the fact that he always thinks of safety of the health of himself and the other man in the possibility of an emergency ahead.

For Federal Traffic Law.

The Constitution of the United States, Article I, gives congress the power to construct postoffices and roads and the necessary corollary of that is that congress has the right to regulate traffic on a road after building it.

"Now, instead of 45 different state laws and 25,000 city and county laws regulating traffic on highways of the United States, why not have congress do the same thing on all federal aid highways. A uniform law would be uniformly enforced and the federal aid roads take in so much of the country that the same rules and regulation would automatically apply to all paved roads.

We have uniform systems in other executive departments. Why is the name of heaven can't we have a uniform traffic system? It would be of inestimable value to the safety of everyone."

To Carry Fight to Congress.

Dr. Kitchens declares that he intends to carry the fight for federal traffic control to congress through his congressman and through President Roosevelt, if necessary.

"I am not a politician even if I do live in Meriwether county," he said. "But I intend pushing this humanitarian project through in the interest of the life and welfare of our people."

The only controlling factor of ignorance is the strong arm of the law.

75,000 Pledge Signers.

It appears that there are approximately 75,000 Georgia citizens that have signed the Safe Driving pledge of The Constitution Safety Council and are daily practicing the seven simple safe driving rules of the pledge.

But that leaves quite a few Georgia drivers who have not signed the pledge. The mystery woman said she had not signed the pledge.

She is Mrs. Mayfield, of Atlanta.

John Mayfield, Jr., told of seeing his mother whip Mrs. Dixon on one occasion

He said he and Mrs. Mayfield went to the Crew street factory previously and, while watching the place, saw

Captain Mayfield leave the place.

He saw Mrs. Dixon on a street near-by and Mrs. Mayfield, according to her son, approached the woman.

The captain's wife asked Mrs. Dixon to leave her husband alone, the son said, but he did not hear Mrs. Dixon's reply. He said Mrs. Mayfield then walked up the street.

Other witnesses had previously testified that Mrs. Dixon was away from her work as a cigarmaker for two weeks.

Young Mayfield said frequently

when he came home at nights he found his mother weeping and that he and she knelt in prayer to ask for their sins.

He said his mother was a

Methodist.

Wallace deemed compulsory marketing control "not generally desired." He favored an wholly voluntary control on a co-operative basis,

too. He said:

"I think it is better to have the government as a rallying point."

Whatever the decision of the supreme court, he said, it would be received calmly at his department.

To Discuss "Province of Federal Power"

LOVEJOY, WATKINS
WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

Province of Federal Power
To Be Subject of Discussion at Dinner.

Hatton Lovejoy of LaGrange, and Judge Edgar Watkins of Atlanta, will discuss the "Province of Federal Power" before the Georgia League of Women Voters at dinner at 6 o'clock tonight at the Biltmore hotel.

Judges of the supreme court, judges of the court of appeals and of the federal district court, are to be among the guests. The state jurists to attend will be Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr. and Justice John B. Hutchinson of the supreme court, and Judge Nash Broyles, Alexander W. Stephens, Hugh J. MacIntyre and I. H. Sutton, of the federal appeals court.

Both are to speak. Mrs. Lovejoy, who is president of the Georgia League of Women Voters, will introduce the speakers.

The dinner will be open to the public.

Two addresses are the second of a series to be presented by the league. The first were offered last month through Graham Wright, of Rome, and Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens. Future subjects will be "The Purposes and Progress of the New Deal" and "The American Way."

It was 32° clear at the Biltmore hotel.

BIG 'CADE TO DEDICATE DALTON ROAD TODAY

Caravan of 50 Cars To Move Over Cleveland Link for Exercises.

DALTON, Ga., Dec. 4.—Approximately 50 cars are expected to leave here at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and join the Cleveland, Tenn., motorcade at the state line where exercises incident to completion of the paving of the road in Georgia will be held at 3:30 o'clock.

The American Legion's 32nd annual band will lead the caravan, followed next by the "roving" car of The Atlanta Constitution.

Dr. W. J. Parks, mayor of Cleveland, will introduce the Tennessee speakers and Dr. J. G. McAfee, mayor of Dalton, will present the Georgia speakers at the state-line exercises. Following the dedication the party will proceed to Cleveland where a good-will banquet will be served.

John Heck of Marietta, member of the State Highway Board, will head a delegation of Georgia officials, including Judge M. J. Yeomans, attorney-general; George Hamilton, state treasurer. A group of good road boosters from Atlanta are also expected.

The completion of the paving of the Georgia link of the highway fulfills a 10-year-old dream of Dalton. Work on the road has been under way for some time and was recently completed. The highway opens another paved route into Dalton and Georgia and will be of special benefit to autoists from the north and east who come by Knoxville, Tenn., and it is said to cut off 30 miles of the distance from Florida northern and eastern points.

Plea of Insanity Is Rejected as Street Preacher Is Convicted.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Rejecting an insanity plea, a jury in Muscogee superior court today convicted H. S. Perkins, street-corner preacher, of the slaying of a young white man. Perkins was sentenced to be electrocuted January 10.

Sentence was pronounced just after the 56-year-old defendant had delivered a sermon, combining statement during those in the courtroom to become "sainted like I am." His attorneys contended he was insane.

Perkins, for years a familiar figure on Columbus streets, where he often preached—sometimes without an audience—shot and killed Jewel Arrington, 18, after a party quarrel, and then killed a policeman who went to investigate Arrington's death.

The defendant displayed no emotion when the death sentence was passed. He remained likewise unperturbed as the jury brought in its verdict of conviction, without a recommendation for mercy.

Perkins has not been tried in the slaying of the policeman, Ernest Evans.

The shooting took place here October 25 near a house owned by Perkins. Arrington was at work on the house and he and Perkins quarreled. The youth left the house, walking toward his own home just across the street. Near Arrington's residence he was shot in the head and fatally wounded. He died on the porch, in the arms of his mother. The mother testified yesterday Perkins also shot at her but missed.

Evans and another radio patrolman reached the scene shortly afterward and Evans was shot. Evans' companion shot Perkins who recovered. The shooting occurred several times during his trial. The court, however, during his trial, started the comparison with his queer conduct. Early in the proceedings, he laughed aloud for no apparent reason. In an unsworn statement to the jury yesterday, he gave irrelevant quotations from the Bible and discussed religion. When the judge reminded him he was on trial, he burst into a hearty laugh, suggested he tell of the killing. Perkins said he killed the boy "because he wet the walls" of his house. At the end of his statement he removed his belt and asked the judge to whip him.

2 ATHENS MEN FREED IN CHAPMAN KILLING

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Fred McCarty and H. L. Moorehead were acquitted by a federal court jury late today of a charge of slaying Roy Chapman on the postoffice steps here recently.

The jury deliberated five hours, receiving the case shortly before noon. Judge Bascom Deaver, of Macon, presided at the trial.

The defense claimed Chapman accidentally shot himself while the prosecution sought to prove by a purported statement of the dying Chapman that he was shot by McCarty with a gun handed him by Moorehead.

Chapman was killed on the steps of the postoffice, bringing the case under federal jurisdiction.

REV. HERBERT BOWEN DIES AT CARROLLTON

CARROLLTON, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Rev. Herbert H. Bowen, 68, prominent Georgia minister, died unexpectedly here today after a brief illness.

His pastor, Mt. Zion Episcopal church, said more details will be given later.

Surviving are three sons and four daughters. They are H. H. Jr., of Cincinnati; Lyle, of Mt. Zion, and Thomas Bowen, of Daytona Beach, Fla., and Misses Joyce and Olga Bowen, of DeLand, Fla.; Mrs. B. W. McClung, Eccles, W. Va., and Miss Grace Bowen, Chattanooga.

Funeral services will be held at Mt. Zion tomorrow afternoon.

BENEFITS OF PLANNING STATED AT SAVANNAH

Saving of Millions of Dollars Reported at Georgia Conference.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—From an engineering standpoint, conditions are favorable for construction of the proposed $17,500,000 Clarks Hill dam at either of two sites investigated this afternoon by President Roosevelt's special board of engineers, according to Colonel Earl L. Brown, army division engineer at Richmond, Va., and chairman of the group.

The three federal engineers, Colonel Brown, Sherman M. Woodward, secretary of the water planning division of the Natural Resources Board, and Roger B. McWhorter, chief engineer of the Federal Power Commission, made their second visit to the sites on the Savannah river above Augusta and inspected the borings now

Colonel Brown said the board already is at work preparing its report to the President, which will be submitted not later than January 15.

They will continue their investigation here tomorrow morning but later the day will proceed to Savannah for conference with officials of Lieutenant Colonel Crosson, Gainsborough district engineer at Savannah. A later meeting in Washington or Richmond may be necessary before submission of the report, Colonel Brown said.

"In Florida we will not build a road and then tear it up to put in a sewer," Treadaway said. "In Florida planning has changed our tune. We follow the President's doctrine of 'first things first'."

The meeting attracted representatives from Georgia, Florida, Virginia, Alabama and South Carolina, it was arranged by the Albany Herald, district chairman under the national resources committee.

Colonel Brown, chairman of the Virginia State Planning Board, said planning made it possible for Virginia to save $4,000,000 a year without impairing the efficiency of departments.

Development of a large southern wood pulp industry for production of newsprint and other paper was predicted by Joseph Kircher, of Atlanta, regional forester.

Charles W. Eliot Jr., of Washington, executive officer of the national resources committee, said planning started with the Mayflower pact and the constitution.

Mayor Thomas A. Gamble welcomed the guests, saying Savannah was the first city in which every detail was planned before it was settled.

JAP NAVAL DELEGATE HOPES FOR EQUALITY

Nippon Representative Says Offensive-Type Cruisers Should Be Abolished.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Japan's chief delegate to the international naval conference opening next week said today his country wanted to economize on naval armaments and expand its merchant marine.

The delegate, Admiral Osami Nagano, asserted that under certain conditions Japan would be willing to abolish her submarines.

But the major consideration of the Japanese delegation, Admiral Nagano explained, is security. They therefore want the United States and Great Britain to be given parity with Japan.

The conference, opening December 9, will seek to evolve a limitation pact replacing the London and Washington treaties which expire at the end of 1936.

If certain conditions were met, the admiral said, Japan would abolish submarines, but "we think Russia, Germany and other countries would have to enter into any agreement involving them."

(Russia and Germany will not participate in the conference, to be attended by Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Japan and British dominions.

Japan is anxious to see limitation extended on a basis of equality and security, Admiral Nagano asserted, and to economize on naval armaments.

If an agreement on equality is reached, he said, replacing the present 5-5-3 ratio, Japan would not begin a huge building program.

He said a pact of non-aggression in the Pacific would be very desirable.

The death of Princess Victoria, sister of King George V, has shorn the naval conference of ceremony and social activity which had been arranged for the delegates. With the court in mourning, a dinner and reception planned for the first week was postponed indefinitely and no other entertainments are planned.

OFFICER KILLS NEGRO TRAPPED IN CLEANERS

A negro tentatively identified as Floyd Seary, 40, 540 Stonewall Street, S. W., was shot and instantly killed shortly after midnight by Radio Patrolman E. P. Roberts, who allegedly found the negro looting the store of Rock Springs Cleaners, 927 Oak Street, S. W.

Funeral services will be held at the Hill City Baptist church Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with Rev. Holland and Rev. Cutts of Calhoun, officiating.

The child is survived by her parents and grandparents.

ROME MAN TO SPEAK AT MEMPHIS FORUM

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP)—John M. Graham, president of the National City Bank of Rome, Ga., will address the Commercial Appeal's midwinter farm forum here December 11.

The forum will be held in connection with the "plant-to-prosper" competition, sponsored annually by the newspaper in the interest of diversified farming.

COTTON PLAN FAVORED BY CARROLL FARMERS

CARROLLTON, Ga., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two Carroll county cotton growers said today they favor the cotton control program announced by AAA.

Frank Hoop said that while he had not studied the plan in detail, "I believe it is a good thing."

Tom Hendon, another grower, said the plan "appears to be a very good one."

"A few adjustments here and there, no doubt, would help a great deal," he said. "I am of the opinion that it will help the farmers in the whole. In other words, I am in favor of the plan and believe it is satisfactory as it is, but think a few adjustments would make it even more so."

STATE DEATHS

MARKETS FOR FARMERS

Announcement from Washington that the Works Progress Administration had set aside $577,018 for improvement of farmers' marketing facilities in Georgia is supplemented by a statement by C. G. Garner, marketing specialist for the Georgia extension service, that local sponsors of farm markets under the plan will be required to furnish the building sites and 50 per cent of the building costs.

The program as outlined by federal authorities is designed to benefit every part of the state, and requires only co-operation of cities, towns and counties for its consummation. Briefly stated the WPA stands ready to participate in the establishment of 15 markets, each costing $7,850; 14 buildings to be erected for large terminal wholesale markets, each costing $17,882; 200 buildings for small markets in rural community groups, each costing $210, and construction of 72 one-type buildings for retail curb markets, assemblage warehouses and storage plants, each costing $2,356.

While the basic plan is to have the larger projects distributed about the state for advantageous handling of farm products, every county may have one of the smaller units if the farmers and businessmen most vitally affected have sufficient interest in promoting their prosperity to meet the WPA halfway.

The proffered assistance of the federal government in creating local markets for farm products will aid in solving a problem that has been growing during the past three years, as more and still more Georgia farmers abandon the all-cotton farm program for a comprehensive plan of diversified farm activities. Lack of markets long delayed a general move toward diversification, but with curtailment of cotton production and adoption of the live-at-home program, an outlet for surplus farm products was literally forced in many towns and cities.

The growing necessity for farmers' markets is forcibly demonstrated by the report made by Byron Dyer, Bulloch county farm agent, who states that the farmers of that section are prospering because "they have started farming to make a living and not to make money." The program, he said, is now forming a balanced money crop, and these crops, in the order of their financial importance are cotton, tobacco, hogs, poultry, peanuts, corn, pecans, garden truck, watermelons, syrup, hay, beef cattle and strawberries.

Agent Dyer further states that more wheat is being sown this fall than ever before, a large increase in winter cover crops, and there will be a greatly-increased oats crop next year. He estimated that hogs will bring about $500,000 into the county for the 1935-36 season, and states that 300,000 layers had been put on poultry farms in 1935 from which the income is above $30,000 a month.

The proposed farmers' markets, located all over the state, will make it possible for every county to advance diversification as has been done in Bulloch county, with resulting prosperity for the progressive agriculturists who take advantage of their opportunities to have many cash crops instead of one. These markets would mean the dawn of a new era for farming in Georgia and the building of a solid foundation for future lasting prosperity in the state. All that is required is for the wide awake businessmen of each section to immediately take advantage of the opportunity offered them.

Let us look now through the far eastern dispatches and see if the dogs of war have had any further puppies.

If the Nobel people aren't giving a peace prize, the least they can do is post reward for the dove.

One thing is certain: we must have better men in office, or else public service will deteriorate and the cost of government will continue to mount.

Wire produced in 1934 would have circled the earth 2,231 times. It is even more impressive when translated into kinks in phone cords.

Let us look now through the far eastern dispatches and see if the dogs of war have had any further puppies.

This month marks the sixth anniversary of the discovery by everyone that Santa Claus really lives at the North Pole and not in a big stone building in Wall Street, New York.

A writer with the troops says the Italian doughboy feels a lack of dramatic entertainment. And this in a country full of Uncle Toms.

INEXCUSABLE VANDALISM

The destruction of a large number of the dogwood trees recently planted along the highways leading into and out of Atlanta is a type of vandalism so inexcusable as to demand prompt punishment for those responsible.

It is difficult to understand why there should be objection to the planting of these blooming trees along the city's thoroughfares or why they should be wantonly destroyed. The plan to convert the main traffic arteries of Atlanta in the spring into vistas of blooming dogwood is not only a beautiful conception, but if carried out to full fruition, every business interest in the city would be benefited by the thousands of tourists who would be attracted every year.

General Manager of Parks Simons undoubtedly expresses the sentiment of the people of the city in his statement that "why any person would destroy such a plant and attempt to disrupt a program which will mean so much to Atlanta in a few years is a mystery to me."

Major Key has promptly ordered that officers be assigned to the task of detecting any further attempts at the vandalism that has already resulted in the destruction of a large number of newly planted dogwood trees in the city parks and along the streets, and if the miscreants are caught they should be punished in a way that will be a warning to others who, for some mysterious purpose, would block a program of such definite civic value.

BETTER MEN FOR OFFICE

The opinion expressed in a lecture in New York by Will Durant, distinguished American philosopher, orator and writer, that our methods of selecting men for public office are heading the nation toward disaster, strikes at a problem that has grown increasingly more serious as the country has developed in size and world importance.

Dr. Durant deplorers that "men are selected for office because of their political skill, and are then called upon to deal with issues requiring economic knowledge and a wide background of education and intelligence," and points out that our diplomas are no match for the trained, career men of other nations.

In the early days of the republic, when the problems of government to be solved were comparatively few, the ablest minds of the country were selected for public office.

Now, when the development of the country has made the government overshadow any other business in the country, men who have had little experience in business are usually elected to office.

No better illustration of the deterioration that has taken place among those holding office in the United States is to be found than in the federal senate. The master minds that once were the mark of senate membership are now the exception, rather than the rule, among the members of the upper branch of congress.

It is not to be expected that diplomats selected as a reward for party service can successfully cope with men who have devoted their lives to diplomacy and have been given intensive training to enable them to deal with international problems.

Even the presidency has not escaped the trend toward lessened ability among those holding public office, the last third of a century having seen the office held by a few men of equal ability with the statesmen who occupied the office before the turn of the century.

Dr. Durant suggests that the threat to the national well-being resulting from the lessening of the ability of those holding public office can be checked through the organization of schools of government in universities and the establishment of a United States civil service.

It is not to be expected that diplomats selected as a reward for party service can successfully cope with men who have devoted their lives to diplomacy and have been given intensive training to enable them to deal with international problems.

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Personal Note.

ADDIS ABABA—I fought through the great war in the infantry and seldom felt pessimistic. The only thought that troubled me was the fact that I had volunteered for the duration of the war with Germany and six months after.

The knowledge of that piece of paper lying somewhere in the pocket of my war office disquieted me. Had I signed for three years, all would have been well, or for three years, or as it turned out to be, for four years even.

But the indefiniteness of the engagement upset me. It was like being locked up and not knowing when the deliverer would come. Also a form of claustrophobia, I dare say.

The same feeling has returned about the war, but not see the end of it. I am afraid even this war, if it lasts much longer, will gently pass into a wider stadium, produce a new and bigger war, Addis Ababa was not very cheerful, but Kubo is worse. We live like beasts. We live like beasts, too, in those famous Flanders fields.

But that was 1915. I cough when I take a chill. I paid no attention to chills in 1915. And as to wet feet, why, that was something so common, that one did not even notice it.

When I left school, the rector gave me a little farewell, in public. He quipped, "You're a good boy, the Lord will be with you."

Peter, you have gone very much wherever you liked, but the time will come when you will be led where you don't want to go. This is not a verbatim quotation. Luther Still does not need bother to look it up. But that was the sense of it. That time when I would be led, I do not know, but I do not mind. I do not mind being here in Ethiopia. I am out of my element. I haven't been able to carry on a decent conversation with anybody for the past two months. But it seems a year, or a century. It takes all my patience and forbearance to keep from talking harshly to my cook, "Boul-Boul." That's a bad sign. Irritation. Exasperation.

I can only believe that a man could go crazy here. If somebody sat to me tomorrow and said, "I want you to go home from Ethiopia to Europe," I start out without the slightest hesitation, and cheerfully. It is well-nigh impossible to get up to the front. I have tried for six weeks, and am still stuck 60 kilometers from Makale. I promise myself to see, or from a distance, at least one battle. But they don't fight when I am around. That's the trouble. As a matter of fact, there has been no fighting at all in this war so far, except some isolated skirmishes.

I am much reminded of Newman's great hymn these days. "The night is dark, and I am far from home." I know what it feels like now. "O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till . . . Yes, that's not so, enticing a prospect. I'd like to quote the whole hymn here, but I don't remember every stanza.

But this much I do remember: "And with the sound those angel faces smile, which I have loved long since, and lost a while."

I am like that boy at school, who used to say: "I can bear anything so long as I keep on thinking of the holidays."

SICKLE-SHARPENING

Mr. Roosevelt moves fast, leaps far in single jumps.

His hop from poverty to riches a few days back was one of his swiftest and longest.

After visiting the rural resettlement project of 70 families at Pine Mountain valley, Georgia, he motored to the estate, Blue Springs, of Cason Callaway, big southern mill owner, to spend the night. A marine detail was sent over from Warm Springs to guard the place for that occasion.

The only significant thing about it apparently is that no one thought it was sufficiently significant to be mentioned.

RELAXATION

Several incoming congressmen are looking forward to the coming session of congress as a rest.

Representative Sam Hill, of Washington, was so worn out with seeing constituents and trying to get jobs that he went to bed as soon as he returned to Washington. Another arrival reports that he spent the recess answering two telephones in his home office constantly, all day long.

He likewise willed.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON

BUMP WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—The hand that rules the cradle of diplomacy is the one that rocked George Peck out of the New Deal. Nearly everyone suspected the long bony fingers of State Secretary Hull were somewhere in the final oscillation. Few except the trustees who sat in on the closed meetings of the export-import banks realized just where, and how.

Chairman of the board of trustees is Mr. Hull's crony, R. Walton Moore, the assistant secretary of state. Mr. Hull, through Mr. Moore, controlled the board of which Mr. Peck was supposed to be president. They have exercised that control in all details to see that Mr. Peck did little except to write critical reports and make forlorn speeches. They performed all the functions of foreign trading themselves.

AUTHORITY At the bank offices, wherever you turned for information concerning Mr. Peck's expected resignation at the time it was known to be pending, the wise clerks directed you to see "Moore"—not Mr. Moore, just "Moore." Mr. Peck's press relations office itself would have nothing to do with the publication of the final announcement. It also referred all inquiries significantly in the same direction.

To make the picture complete, the announcement was not even made by Mr. Peck or by the White House, to which he was supposed to be special foreign trade adviser, but by the same Department of State.

SIGNIFICANCE Those close to Mr. Peck know he did not want to resign. He was interested in a theory of foreign trade. He had nothing else to do, so he was bent on staying here in the face of obviously insurmountable difficulties, to fight for his lost cause. An ordinary man would have resigned months ago, when he became apparent he was being pushed into a cubby-hole.

The passing of Peck, therefore, means only the official confirmation of his foolish ousting, which occurred some time back.

The angle that it represents the final retirement of the Baruch key men (Johnson, Peck and Moley) is somewhat stale. Only Professor Moley of that group is still in top standing, but this administration often permits its ex-friends to quarrel with it without serious consequences.

The only practical effect will be to terrify further the New Dealers who differ with the relentless Mr. Hull. His belt is nearly full of scalps and he is reaching for other important hair.

CAUTION It may be only a diplomatic move, but the British admiralty is quietly calling in its naval reserve officers from the merchant marine. Officers and engineers from the Cunard and other British steamship lines have been ordered to report immediately to Portsmouth. It is the first time since the World War that such call has been issued.

The move has caused far more concern among United States diplomats than the more obvious ones which have gone before. They believe American businessmen who might be affected by another war scare should proceed cautiously during the next ten days.

COMPANY President Roosevelt moves fast, leaps far in single jumps. His hop from poverty to riches a few days back was one of his swiftest and longest.

After visiting the rural resettlement project of 70 families at Pine Mountain valley, Georgia, he motored to the estate, Blue Springs, of Cason Callaway, big southern mill owner, to spend the night. A marine detail was sent over from Warm Springs to guard the place for that occasion.

The only significant thing about it apparently is that no one thought it was sufficiently significant to be mentioned.

SICKLE-SHARPENING

Mr. Roosevelt is keeping closer touch than you know with the government defense of the AIA in the supreme court.

But this much I do remember: "And with the sound those angel faces smile, which I have loved long since, and lost a while."

I am much reminded of Newman's great hymn these days. "The night is dark, and I am far from home." I know what it feels like now. "O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till . . . Yes, that's not so, enticing a prospect. I'd like to quote the whole hymn here, but I don't remember every stanza.

But this much I do remember: "And with the sound those angel faces smile, which I have loved long since, and lost a while."

He likewise willed.

TADA WILL PROTEST ANTI-JAPANESE ACTS

Nippon's War Lord in North China Moves To Halt Growing Unrest.

PEIPING, Dec. 4.—(P)—A spokesman announced tonight that Major General Hayao Tada, Japanese military commander in North China, plans to protest to Chinese authorities against a renewal of activities of anti-Japanese organizations.

These activities, the spokesman asserted, are "causing uneasiness."

This statement followed the curt assertion of General Sung Chen-yuan, Chinese commander of the Peiping garrison, that he would "take no orders from any foreign power."

General Sung said he expected reforms in North China approved by the Nanking government to forestall creation of "another Manchukuo" to become effective soon.

Nanking's minister of war, General Ho Shih-min, was understood to be conferring in Peiping today with General Kenji Doihara, Japanese military leader.

Prominent Visitors Oppose Cotton Plan

Speaker Allen Ellender, of the Louisiana house of representatives, left, and Senator E. D. (Cotton) Smith, of South Carolina, chairman of the senate committee on agriculture, pictured here yesterday while on a brief visit to Atlanta. Both expressed opposition to the government's new cotton program. Ellender is the candidate of the Long machine for the senate from his state.

Senator Smith, of South Carolina, Opposes Compulsory Cotton Plan

The federal government's new four-year cotton program fails to suit E. D. (Cotton) Smith, senior senator from South Carolina, and Allen J. Ellender, senator-prospect from Louisiana, either of whom were in Atlanta yesterday.

Senator Smith is chairman of the senate committee on agriculture. Mr. Ellender is the present speaker of the Louisiana house of representatives and the Long machine's candidate for the long senate term beginning in 1937.

"I do not believe there should be any further compulsory control of cotton," Senator Smith said. "Any acreage reduction ought to be voluntary and the government should take some steps to dispose of our cotton surplus abroad. But to present the Hays-Smith tariff act and the Johnson act which prevents our extending credit with our debtor nations close the doors. Something ought to be done about these two laws."

Senator Smith, who has been in the upper branch of congress 27 years and has been chairman of the committee on agriculture a number of years, said he "wasn't consulted" by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on the new cotton plan.

"I believe both the President and the secretary are doing what they think is right, but they are not going to take the small farmer growing cotton to make a living," Senator Smith said. "The trouble is the folks they have in charge of the cotton section of the AAA don't know anything about cotton. They are theorists, instead of practical people."

Discussing the Hays-Smith act and the Johnson act, Senator Smith, a low tariff man, said both were working hardships on the American people.

"The tariff ought to be lowered and the Johnson act prevents us dealing in credits with nations which owe us, and they don't owe us now," he pointed out. "We need a lowering of the tariff barriers and an exchange of commodities."

Alotments Too Small.
Speaker Ellender, whose home is at Houma, La., said the farmers of his section grow chiefly sugar cane and the allotments given them are not large enough to provide a satisfactory livelihood.

"Of course I'm running for the long term of the senate, which means that if I'm elected I won't take my seat until January, 1937. The entire picture probably will be changed by then," he said. "However, early this year I made a trip to Washington and discussed the new cotton plan with Wallace. The sugar cane allotments were too small for the farmers of my community and he increased them. I have not had chance to study the new plan fully, but on the surface it looks like it needs some changes, too, if the people of my section are to make a living."

The speaker said cotton was the small crop in his section.

Both Senator Smith and Speaker Ellender said President Roosevelt would "have no trouble whatever" in their states. Senator Smith said the idea of opposing Roosevelt isn't even being considered in South Carolina.

Long Opposition Passes.
In Louisiana, the opposition of the late Senator Long to the President has not lived beyond him, Ellender said.

"If I go to the senate I am going to help the President straighten out the few things which need changing," he said. "All is well for the President in Louisiana."

Ellender said that while he was a leading follower of Senator Long he did not and does not subscribe to the late senator's program for sharing the wealth.

"I am for a redistribution of wealth," he pointed out. "I personally

WPA WORK TO START ON $292,501 PROJECTS

Nearly Half of List An-nounced Yesterday Is for Fulton and DeKalb.

WPA projects for Georgia, totalling $292,501, of which $122,420 will be spent in Fulton and DeKalb counties, were announced in a list released yesterday by the Georgia Works Progress Administration. Allocation on the projects will begin immediately.

In the list were initial allotments for recreation projects in 37 counties. Informed sources said this was an indication the WPA will continue similar projects begun under FERA.

The recreational allotments called for an appropriation of $150 for each of the counties with the exception of Baldwin county, in which $200 was allotted.

The largest single project on today's list was county-wide malaria control in Chatham county calling for $53,000 in federal funds.

The Augusta sewer project received an allotment of $25,000.

Fulton and DeKalb county projects included:

Bureau work in the Carnegie library interior, Atlanta, $75; addition to the Alonso Richardson school, College Park, $40,000; athletic building at the Fulton High school, $30,000; Rock Oak High school building, $1,000; four-room addition to the Brookhaven school, DeKalb county, $5,000; gymnasium at the Stone Mountain school, DeKalb, $5,849; indexing DeKalb county record, $1,500.

Other important projects over the state are maintaining and operating sewing rooms in Athens, $11,350; improvements to the bridge between Thomson and Warrington, McDuffie county, $1,848; waterworks at Buchanan, Haralson county, $15,000; improving a secondary road in Hancock county, $2,296.

Relief workers on WPA projects in Georgia totalled 52,856 on November 30, it was announced in figures released yesterday.

To this were added 638 non-relief WPA workers and 3,831 workers on other government projects, making a grand total of 57,325.

This compared with 50,529 WPA relief workers and a grand total of 54,715 on November 23.

Results of Poll on Bonus Issue To Be Given Only in Constitution

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 4.—As strongest contingents of the "bonus army" of 1932 came from northern and north-central industrial areas, that was the beginning of the cash bonus issue, and it has become more and more persistent in succeeding congresses.

Speculation turns on what President Roosevelt's attitude will be toward a new cash bonus bill, and there is certain to be one.

In a strong speech last May, when the possible bonus bill was introduced in the House, the President vetoed it.

ALIENS' DEPORTATION IS FAVORED BY FISH

New York Republican Tells Legionnaires Why He Voted Against Bonus.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Deportation of aliens who would destroy the American government and its institutions was advocated here today by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., of New York.

Addressing the American Legion Luncheon Club and other civic club members at a luncheon, Fish vigorously defended the American system of government.

"Our system is the fairest, soundest and best in the world, under which American labor is the best paid, housed, fed and clothed and the most contented in the world."

"Communists," he said, "do not fear the courts or the jails. But they do fear deportation and I say that if they can not live in this country and support its constitution, then congress ought to enact legislation providing for their deportation."

Speaking briefly of the proposed cancellation of veterans' adjusted compensation certificates, Fish expressed belief that a bonus bill would be passed by congress by the middle of next February.

Voted Against Bonus.

"I voted against the bonus at the last session of congress," he said. "It was one of the few times I have upheld the hands of President Roosevelt. I voted against the bill, not because I was opposed to the bonus, but because I am unalterably opposed to any method of financing, through inflationary methods or the use of printing press money. There is no more reason to pay the bonus than there is to pay off the national debt, the salaries of federal employees and members of congress or for maintenance of the army and navy."

"The veterans have been crucified on a cross of inflation and currency expansion and refuse any longer to be exploited by politicians for their own selfish purposes."

Fish Pleased.

Fish said he was pleased that the American Legion decided, at its last convention, to oppose payment of the bonus by any method of inflation.

"But," he added, "veterans or no bonus, the American Legion is the greatest force in the country for preservation of the constitution against the attacks of communists and radicals of all kinds who seek to undermine and destroy our American system of government."

Fish emphasized that his speech was non-partisan. "Although I represent Roosevelt's district in congress, I want to assure you that I do not speak today as his spokesman," he said.

2 MEN ARE SLAIN IN TEXAS "CLUB"

Pair Shot to Death by 'Bouncers' in Tulsa Night Rendezvous.

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A federal revenue agent, Louis Pappan, 42, and George Stewart, 39, former Tulsa detective captain, were shot to death at the Swanky Sheridan night club here early today after they had been thrown from the place by two "bouncers."

The two "bouncers," Tyre Parks and G. R. McCullough, declared Pappan and Stewart had attended a holdup. The men were arrested and Roy Staley, manager of the club, was placed in jail later in the morning.

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two men were wounded early today in a volley of gunfire during a holdup of the Crescent night club seven miles north of here in Pemiscot county.

Blytheville officers said they had been informed three men were arrested in the robbery and had been released on $5,000 bonds each by Missouri officers.

Pat Murphy, 40, former part owner of the club, and Bun Campbell, employee of the roadhouse, were wounded.

DR. J. W. FIELD DIES

Practiced in Atlanta More Than 35 Years.

Dr. J. W. Field, 63, a practicing physician for more than 35 years, died about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of a daughter, Log Cabin drive, Cravenswood, station.

Dr. Field was a native of Cherokee county, Georgia, and attended public school and Reinhardt Normal College. In 1891 he entered the Atlanta College of Eclectic Medicine and Surgery, and practiced here since his graduation from that institution.

Besides his daughter, Mrs. W. M. Neel, he is survived by two sons, Howard Field, Jacksonville, Fla., and John W. Field, San Francisco; three sisters, Mrs. L. L. Lovingson, Miss Mattie Field, both of Calhoun, Ga.; Mrs. R. C. Conner, Dunedin, Fla., and a brother, Dr. Charles H. Field, Bradenton, Fla.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

BANDIT SLAIN, AID SHOT IN ROBBERY OF BANK

WADESTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Police bullets turned back two robbers trying to hold up the Bank of Wadestown in this mountain community today, killing one and seriously wounding the other.

The troopers who waited for the men three days after receiving tip, loosed a volley of shotgun fire after the pair fired at Assistant Cashier Oren C. Henderson, who ignored their demand for money.

The man slain was identified at the Morgantown hospital as Howard Hayes, 23, of Mannington. The man wounded gave his name as Ray Taylor, 35.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

A cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. You can relieve them now with Croomulsion, the emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Croomulsion is a medical discovery that aids nature to soothe and heal the infected membranes and to relieve the irritation and inflammation as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Medical authorities have for many years recommended the wonderful effects of Beechwood Creosote for treating coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A chemist worked out a special process of blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Croomulsion you get a real dose of Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently.

AT ATLANTA'S THEATERS

"She Couldn't Take It" Held Over at Rialto

With the opening performance this morning "She Couldn't Take It," latest addition to that roster of super-productions which has made film history for the Cineplex studios, comes its second week at the Rialto theater.

With George Raft and Joan Bennett doing excellent work in the two star roles of the picture, the entire cast is remarkable for the utter fitness of every performance. Billie Burke, Walter Connolly, and Nolens James Blakely, and half a dozen others all contribute much to the polished success of the performance.

The story of a family ruined and made ridiculous by too much money, and of the ex-gangster who applies his hardboiled methods of control to cure them of their ills, the picture is built with action, with laughter and with action that titillates the nerves and romance that leaves a warm glow of pleasure.

It was directed by Tay Garnett and, while it is, of course, as yet too soon to make definite predictions, it is not unlikely to equal or exceed the long run record made by some of its predecessors, such as "It Happened One Night," "Lady for a Day," "She Married Her Boss," etc.

"Peter Ibbetson" at Fox Stars Cooper, Hardin

Gary Cooper and Ann Harding make their first appearance as a romantic team in Paramount's adaptation of George Eliot's "Masters and Servants." "Peter Ibbetson" regarded as one of the greatest love stories of the ages, which opens today for a week's engagement at the Fox theater. The choice of these two for the top roles in the film was decided after taking into consideration the fact that Cooper and Miss Harding could easily fill the principal roles of the original affianced, capable of making the dreamlike quality of the romance real, believable and beautiful. Delicate, ethereal, whimsical in mood, "Peter Ibbetson" is a冰locked realm which Bryd explored and claimed for the United States.

As the film opens, the proud house of Lorrimore is crumbling. Of the once famous glory, only the Fifth Avenue mansion remains. Mrs. Lorrimore (Helen Westley) is an imperious and scheming dowager, conspiring with her daughter, Mary (Katherine Alexander), to arrange a marriage between her son, Brighton (Joel McCrea), and the wealthy daughter of a sausages heiress.

Brighton enrages his mother and sister when he goes on a trip south and returns married to Phyllis Manning (Miriam Hopkins), a penniless brat of an impervious but aristocratic Knickerbocker family.

BRITISH WHO'S WHO LISTS QUIN DOCTOR

Famous Country Physician Rated Among Notables in 1936 Edition.

London, Dec. 4.—(UPI)—Dr. Alan Roy Dafos, the northern Ontario country doctor who brought the Dionne quintuplets into the world, was listed yesterday in the 1936 edition of the British "Who's Who."

Dr. Dafos' modest "half-stick" of contributions with that of Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., whose address at Sutton, England, and Reno, Nev., are listed in his three-quarters of a column of biography.

Mayo Fiorello LaGuardia, of New York, former Mayor Jimmy Walker, Father Coughlin and Dr. Townsend star are excluded.

Senator George C. Correll Hull and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace are the only United States cabinet members listed. Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, is described as "now dean of the United States senate."

Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford are included but there is no mention of their divorce.

Mahatma Gandhi rates 10 lines. Reichsleiter Adolf Hitler, of Germany, two.

Premier Benito Mussolini's notice is still in Italian. President Roosevelt's notice mentioned his book, "Our Way," and former President Hoover's book, "Challenge to Liberty."

The resolution was drafted by Bishop James Cannon Jr., Los Angeles, powerful dry chieftain of prohibition days, and adopted without comment.

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—David Gordon Lyon, 82, founder of the Semitic Museum at Harvard University and professor emeritus of Semitic languages at the school, died at his home yesterday.

He was an executive of the old New York World, and had been city editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. Author of several books, he also had appeared frequently on the lecture platform.

Seitz, on the staff of the old World for 20 years, was especially critical of his own craft.

Once he said newspapers were becoming prosperous but were useless as watchdogs of the public's interests.

He was a series of articles on newspaper work which he wrote for the magazine Outlook, of which he served as associate editor for a short time, he reviewed the field of newspaper publishing as a constructive critic.

ARMY PLANES DESTROY GEORGIA SUPPLY BASE

Air Maneuvers Will Continue in Florida for Next Two Weeks.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4.—(UPI)—Crack pursuit pilots of the army's general headquarters force dove into the midst of Miami today to stave off their "destroying" an imaginary airdrome on Sand Key.

Leaving the victory to be decided later, they swooped northward to intercept bombardment planes returning from "demolishing" a theoretical supply base at Fitzgerald, Ga. The bombers were scheduled to return to their Vero Beach base by Fort Myers and Fort Lauderdale.

It was between these two cities that the pursuit wing sought to trap them in a net.

The attacking group, cut off northeast of here, came from the base at Fort Pierce. Results of both encounters will be announced later.

These two objectives afforded the problems of the air force's second day's maneuvers, which are designed primarily to test the fleet's ability to communicate by radio the position of "enemy" planes, and then mobilize in defense.

In today's maneuvers it was up to the pursuit planes based at Miami to defend all territory within a radius of 80 miles of the city. Staff officers said it was a more difficult task than yesterday's, when they trapped bombers returning to Vero Beach after bombing Tampa. However, they allowed attack planes from Fort Pierce to cross the line and return to an imaginary airdrome in Virginia Key.

Approximately 150 pursuit planes are participating in the force's maneuvers, which will continue in this area for two weeks. Each day the fliers are given problems to test their defensive ability.

America, spoke at the luncheon on "The Newest Trends in Social Service Finances." A talk was also made by Kenneth G. Bentz, director of region No. 8, embracing Georgia, Florida, North and South Carolina.

Dr. Herman L. Turner, head of the Atlanta council, presided at the luncheon. Executives from Rome, Augusta, Athens and West Point attended the session.

REAL ESTATE BOARDS OPEN MEETING TODAY

Federal Activity in Business To Be Discussed at Re- gional Conference.

Widespread activities of the government in the direction of which will be presented by four representatives of the federal administration to the southeastern regional meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which opens this morning at the Biltmore hotel. Real estate financing, new building methods and materials for homes, taxation and appraising are the principal items to be considered by the 400 delegates expected to attend.

In the light of the AAA announcement of a four-year cotton control program, T. C. W. Duggan, senior agricultural economist, of the cotton of the AAA, will speak this afternoon on the effects of the program on land values and income. Key-note address will be made at 9:30 o'clock this morning by Alfred H. Ware, regional vice president, of Ware-Pine Beach.

Five-minute reports on, "How's Business in My State" will be made by Frank C. Owens, president of the Georgia Real Estate Association, and by representatives of North Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee and Virginia. A national bank of discount for real estate will be discussed by Edward A. MacDougall, chairman of the association's committee on finance.

"Can Real Estate Taxes Be Reduced?" will be the subject of Lawrence G. Holmes, secretary of the national association, at a luncheon meeting. R. C. Mizell, of Atlanta, member of the national committee, will preside.

Group sessions for brokers, farm land managers and financiers will be held this afternoon.

P. THORNTON MARYE IS LAID TO LAST REST

Philip Thornton Marye, well-known Atlanta architect, civic worker and churchman, was buried yesterday in Arlington National Cemetery at Washington following funeral services here.

Mr. Marye, a resident of Atlanta 33 years, was regional director for Georgia of the housing administration under the C.W.A. and served as a member of the city planning commission of Washington, D. C.

He was a vestryman of St. Luke's Episcopal church, a Mason, and active in many Atlanta clubs and civic organizations.

VIADUCT DEDICATION WILL BE HELD TODAY

Formal opening of the newly completed Peters street viaduct will take place between 11 o'clock and noon today, when officials of the Peters Street and Marietta Club and their friends will observe the event with a barbecue and other celebrations.

Mayor Key and members of city council have been invited to participate in the formal dedication of the bridge, and a good representation is expected.

The new viaduct will open a new route to West End section of Atlanta and will relieve cross-town traffic it is expected. The merchants along the street will open a drive to retain what they term "The Peters street place in the merchandising activities of the city."

Aged Negro Asks Pay For Work Done in 1873

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 4.—(P)—William Faris, aged negro, got around to putting in his claim against the city today for work done in the cholera epidemic in June, 1873.

Faris had no written evidence of his claim, nor was any on file at the city's health. Lack of written proof made it difficult to effect. He remembered that he was hired by Colonel James R. Powell, second mayor of Birmingham. He also had the details of the cholera epidemic correct, and claimed his work consisted of making 72 coffins.

"De colonel hired me for two dollars and six bits ($2.75) and I worked five weeks—every day, sunup to dark."

The aged negro hadn't figured the total of the claim, "de white folks can do dat."

And by way of explaining his tardiness in demanding pay, Faris said, "I ain't been needing the money 'special, 'cause my children been taking care of me. But now I've gittin' old and I needs it."

NEW TRAFFIC SIGNALS
NOW BEING INSTALLED

Improvements in System To Add to Safety and Speed of Atlanta Streets.

Holiday visitors in Atlanta will be greeted by improved conditions in so far as the flow of traffic is concerned, it was announced yesterday by Dewey Johnson, superintendent of electrical affairs.

Johnson asserted a projected renovation and improvement of the synchronized traffic signal system, operating under his department, is nearing completion and the completion of the program will not only speed up the flow of traffic but will be a move for safety.

For many years local traffic lights were controlled by a master box located at Five Points in the heart of the business district. If any eventuality forced that switch out of order, the entire traffic control system was paralyzed.

Johnson and his men have been at work decentralizing the control and all traffic lights south of the viaducts are now independent of the Five Points control.

In addition, overhead lights are being replaced in that area with panel lights. Another major improvement is the elimination of the amber caution light, which the signal changes from red to green. This will prevent cars, which have stopped on red lights, from jumping into the clearing traffic, it is said.

Under the amber elimination when the lights change from red to green, the green, allowing to flow in the opposite direction changes from green to amber, thus giving the green the top place.

The red light, blocking traffic on the cross street, remains red until the amber changes to red on the side where the green light was. The red light then turns immediately to green. Thus the amber light is eliminated only when the lights change from red to green, but remains where the lights change from green to red.

Panel lights also are being installed at Little Five Points. Johnson said he will ask council next year for sufficient funds to improve the traffic signals north of the viaducts.

AID ON UNDERPASS ASKED OF COUNTY

Request for $75,000 in Work Referred to Ed Almand for Decision.

Fate of the North Avenue-Marietta street underpass at the Southern railway yesterday was placed in the hands of Ed L. Almand, chairman of the public works committee of the Fulton county commission.

Following the request by Mayor Key which was delivered through Hugh C. Couch, the board referred the request for the equivalent of $75,000 in county services to Almand with power to act.

If Almand sees fit, he may proceed to enter an agreement at once through which the state highway department will administer $485,000 in the underpass.

EIGHT POLICE QUIZZED IN TAR, FEATHER PROBE

Two of Trio Attacked by Mob in Tampa Reported in Serious Condition.

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 4.—(P)—Authorities investigating the flogging, tarring and feathering of three men here questioned at least eight members of the Tampa police department yesterday following a statement by one of the victims that policemen took part in the affair.

Two of the three victims of the Saturday night attack were in a serious condition, while the third still was under medical treatment but was said to be recovering. They were arrested for questioning following a meeting of unemployed persons and were taken to the police station immediately following their release by the officers.

State Attorney J. Rex Ferrier and County Solicitor J. C. Hardee conducted the investigation of the policemen at Ferrier's office today. Deputies guarded the doors and newspapermen were not permitted to attend the two sessions held.

The official investigation was speeded by demands for action against the floggers from Norman Thomas, one-time socialist candidate for president, and the American Civil Liberties Union. The Central Trade and Labor Assembly of Tampa also condemned the mob action and asked for arrest of guilty persons.

Ferrier and Hardee made no announcement of their findings other than to say they were doing everything possible to bring the trio's attackers to justice. The eight city policemen known to have appeared before the investigators were Lieutenant J. L. Eddings, Officer F. W. Wilson, Assistant Detective Chief M. C. Beale, Officer D. H. Chiles, Officer F. W. Switzer, Officer Arthur Berry, of the vice squad; Detective J. P. Gray and Sergeant C. A. Brown.

DUPLICATE RETURN ON INCOME TAX SET

Extra Copy of '35 Declara- tion Will Be Given Local Officials.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(P)—Treasury officials are drafting regulations to require the filing of duplicate income tax returns on 1935 incomes.

The extra copy of a taxpayer's return will be made available to local officials charged with administration of state and local tax laws. Authority for this requirement was inserted in the last session's tax law after repeat of the "pink slip" publicity provision.

Treasury officials said the regulations were in a formative stage, but assumed the duplicate would consist of a colored sheet, possibly green. They were unable to say whether the duplicate would be a "sworn" copy or not, but said it would be true to type.

Under present plans, both copies will be returned to district collectors who will keep one copy for the convenience of local authorities.

LINCOLN ZEPHYR

The new twelve-cylinder car that brings Ford and Lincoln standards of value to the medium-price field

The Lincoln Motor Company presents to this city the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR—an authentically modern motor car.

It has a 12-cylinder motor, a motor of the V-type, proved so efficient in Lincoln and Ford cars. This engine develops 110 horsepower. The wheelbase is 122 inches. The springbase is 133 inches. The bore and stroke is 2 3/4 inches by 3 3/4 inches. The roomy body accommodates six people and luggage.

The LINCOLN-ZEPHYR is, above all things, a new car, new in idea, performance, appearance. But it does share the background of experience, the creative engineering skill that have developed the Ford and the Lincoln cars. It is built in its own specially equipped division of the famous Lincoln precision plant. Workmen trained for years in building the Lincoln bring to it methods of precision they have learned so well. It reflects the Ford skill in organizing production that combines quantity with quality, that gives value at a price. Only thus could a car of such power, size and beauty be offered for so little. Only thus could it represent in its field as genuine a value as the Lincoln and Ford cars in theirs.

As you inspect the LINCOLN-ZEPHYR for the first time, you will be impressed by the sweeping beauty of its every line. It employs fully the principles of aero-dynamic design. Streamlines flow not only from end to end, but from side to side. But grace of line, in this case, does more than express a style trend. It reflects principles of design and construction as new as the car itself.

Steel trusses make possible the bridge, the airplane fuselage, the Marconi tower—structures of light weight but great strength. Steel trusses underlie the flowing curves of this new car. Body and frame are one, welded together. Here is a steel bridge, the body, a rigid structure, supported at two points, the front and rear springs. The roof and roof-members, with the floor and floor-members, carry the stresses.

The first result of this new construction, obviously, is great safety under all conditions.

Great comfort follows inevitably. The center of gravity is low; passengers step directly onto the floor of the car; and the weight of all passengers is poised between the axles. There is no "back-seat" ride.

Soft transverse springs minimize the "up-and-down" motion, the jounces, the bumps of the road that rob riding of comfort. We have no hesitancy in saying that this car, with its smooth V-12 power, offers a new rhythm of motoring. The gliding ride results naturally from its design.

Plan to spend at least an hour at the exhibit. A new understanding of the motor car awaits you. Arrange for a demonstration. Performance is as refreshing as appearance.

It Happened in Samarkand

By ACHMED ABDULLAH.

INSTALLMENT III.

Men whose eyes glistened and whose palms itched when they saw the two youths, richly dressed and a little worse for drink; and who controlled themselves—with an effort, let us add—when a warning cough came from a corner of the room where the shadows coiled densely and where a man reclined on a divan, his left arm about the ample waist of a blowzy, brown-haired woman, while the fingers of his right were busy stuffing juicy hunks of mutton down his throat.

"Another flask?" invited Ali.

"By all means."

The wine—perhaps because it was raw and sour—brought their grievances back to them.

"Calling us cowards!"

"And I the best swordsman in Samarkand!"

"I'm the best wrestler!"

"I'm the best rider!"

"Nowhere equal in swinging the battle ax!"

"Nowhere mine in roping and breaking wild stallion!"

"Ah," more loudly, "calling us cowards! And we the pick and pride of the strong, fearless lads! Ah!"

Ali rose, truculently—for, after all, he was his father's son; he confronted the company. "Whoever gainsays me—by my honor—dies the death!"

"Dies the death—with your pithy cut" in a voice, "at my hands!"

From the divan in the corner came the speaker: tall and tough and battle-scarred; his face as red as his beard was of a silken gloss. Decidedly a fine figure of a man—brawny to the ankles, a curved dagger at his hip, a long Turkish sword sticking out in back at a defiant angle like a wren's tail . . .

He approached their table. He sat down without being asked.

"It is boys of your kidney I like," he said. "Rowdy boys. Bully boys. Pranking boys. Ah, I can see it by the glint of your eyes—you have pith in your bones. Pith welling out of your bones. Pith welling out of your pith. Pith and the desire to do grand deeds!" He was silent; went on in a hoarse whisper: "It is your sort I need—in my particular trade."

"What may it be?" inquired Mehmet.

"Empire and dominion and the acclaim of mankind! And how can I fail—with lads like you by my side, not to mention the other heroes who are waiting for me outside the western gate? Seventeen men—I don't mind telling you—who love me, who stick to me like ticks to a sheep's back. And together we shall cut through this land as a knife cuts through cheese. With each victory we shall gather more hardy men to our stands. A surprise attack then—Samarkand taken by storm—the Grand Kahn on his knees before us, swearing fealty. What next . . . ?

AUNT HET

BY ROBERT QUILLIN.

Ah—we turn against Persia—catch the shah unawares—clip his ears and send him unbreathed amongst his women, where he belongs. Then, he drank deeply, "we go raiding into the west. We humiliate profoundly the emperor of the infidel Franks, force him to pay enormous tribute and," here spoke the poet in him, the sentimentalist, "kiss his youngest daughter under an apple tree."

Again he hiccuped; then, the practical man coming to the front, steered himself with a:

"Gently does it! First let us go to another man's stable and find horses that will fit our legs . . ."

The man, you can plainly see, was given to boastful rodomontades. Yet it had not been boasting, had been the truth, when he had claimed he would pull the Grand Khan's beard.

Indeed, by the end of the month, he had plundered homesteads and villages everywhere. He had defeated three of the Grand Kahn's patrols. He had even invaded the outskirts of Samarkand itself—and a wild night it had been, with swords and dirks to the fore, the torches flaring red against the tall, black houses, the bandits flitting away, gorged with loot and blood, and the Grand Kahn in a towering rage, ordering his troopers to gallop in pursuit.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Farby, Ph.D.

Although a woman by the name of Martha Goose (or Vergoose), who lived in Boston, popularized these stories by telling them to her grandchildren, and by publishing a book of them entitled "Songs for the Nursery" or "Mother Goose Melodies for Children," the truth is these melodies are long before Mother Goose ever lived. Even the title, "Mother Goose," was an old one, and was used in France (Mere l'Oye) and in Germany ("Die Gans Mutter"). Chaucer, Shakespeare and other writers included some of these melodies. Mary Goose probably added a few new stories to the list.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

FIGHTING THE BLACK DEATH.

IN France.

It is believed that the Black Death first reached France after a ship from Genoa sailed into the harbor of Marseille. Telling how fast the disease spread, a doctor wrote:

"By a single touch or a single breath of a plague victim, a person would die."

The stories led to horrible deeds. Thousands of Jews were killed, sometimes by burning. The people learned of these events, and sent forth letters to tell Christians that they must not hurt the Jews. He said that the charges of "poisoning wells" was not true.

The Black Death swept Europe about 100 years before Columbus was born. We know that it ended the lives of great numbers, we cannot say exactly how many. It reached Norway and Sweden, as well as the countries of southern and western Europe.

There were new outbreaks of the plague from time to time and it is not "all past" even of the present day. We shall see tomorrow how it has been fought in recent years.

Some of the pictures of "plague doctors" show them wearing queer costumes. Looking at a sketch of a French doctor, we note that he wore a long robe, a mask. From the mask just cut a nose so long that we may call it "amazing." This was filled with spices which were supposed to make the air pure as it was breathed.

CITY TAX COLLECTIONS FALL $1,833,576 SHORT

Additional Economics May Become Mandatory Next Year, Figures Indicate.

City collections from all departments for the first 11 months of 1935 are $1,833,576.62 short of anticipated receipts for the entire year, B. Graham West, city comptroller, announced yesterday.

West, however, asserted that December receipts will be about $500,000 and that virtually all the remaining shortage will be carried forward in the 15 per cent cut by employees in the higher paid brackets.

Anticipated receipts for the year were $9,807,153.43 and collections for the first 11 months totaled $7,973,576.81.

The largest deficit is contained in general tax collections, where the anticipated amount was $5,474,000 and where only $4,024,715.61 had been collected. This leaves a deficit of $1,449,284.39 from this source alone.

Marshall's collections for the first 11 months reached a total of $790,440.39, short by $196,289.07 of the anticipated $986,729.46.

Recorders' court fines collected thus far this year were $147,290.50 as compared to the $150,000 estimated from that source.

Water receipts were $1,636.80.44 as against the $1,760,000 estimated and compared to $1,599,605.05 collected for the first 11 months of 1934.

Business licenses were $20,212.51 short of the estimate. A total of $556,787.49 has been collected and the estimated receipts from that source was placed at $577,000.

Despite the marked reduction in city receipts, schools will suffer little, if any, West pointed out, because about $360,000 was withheld when estimates were furnished the board of education at the beginning of the year.

This fact alone will save the school department from a loss of about $400,000 if the entire city budget had been furnished and the impending deficit in receipts had developed.

"Little Brothers" Prove Selling Champs

Robert and David Gambrell, young sons of Smythe Gambrell, prominent Atlantan, are shown yesterday as they again join up with the Big Brother Club for another campaign of Christmas cheer for poor children. The boys averaged $1 a copy for the last two years for the Big Brother papers they sold. They will be in the field again this year on December 15, when hundreds of Big and Little Brothers will raise money for a most worthy Christmas charity. Photo by Turner Hiers.

Business Girls To Provide Queen For 'Big Brothers' Charity Dance

BY THE BIG BROTHER EDITOR.

Atlantans will be called upon within the next few weeks to crown the queen of the Third Annual Big Brother Charity ball, which will be held December 15 at the Shrine Mosque. Mrs. Katherine Connerat, co-chairman of the charity ball committee, announced yesterday as growing enthusiasm in the Big Brother campaign was being evidenced by hundreds.

Business people in the downtown sections will get a chance to vote some of their entrants in the contest will call upon them at their offices.

Any business girl is qualified to enter the contest for the honor of being queen of the hall. Mrs. Connerat has announced that this feature of the grand charity ball is expected to be exceptionally popular.

Headquarters Open.

Girls who wish to join in can do so by signing up at Big Brother headquarters on the ground floor of the Chamber of Commerce building, where Mrs. George L. Baker will be in charge every day.

The queen will be chosen by her popularity as evidenced by the ticket sale to the colorful ball, Mrs. Connerat said.

An appeal to all churches to aid in the Big Brother campaign was contained in a letter sent out to all religious organizations yesterday by Comptroller Howard Haire, director of the Big Brother drive.

Haire also asked that "fortunate little brothers" join in the campaign to help their less fortunate little brothers." He pointed to the example set by Robert and David Gambrell, sons of Smythe Gambrell, who have sold Big Brother papers every year. They have sold $1,500 worth of tickets for all the sold and the money they raised brought happiness to many poor children last year and the year before.

expects Record Sum.

Cecil R. Hall, general chairman of the Big Brothers' Club, is confident the money raised this year will be far greater than last year. He says the campaign will go over with a bang, since everyone has talked to since the drive was started has been to the tune of "I'm in a war against cheerlessness and sorrow."

As you know, the Big Brother club is sponsored annually by The Constitution and the American Legion Post No. 1, to raise money for a worthy cause.

It is to give happiness and joy to destitute little brothers at Christmas day—to give these unfortunate youngsters the fun their parents cannot afford. Bright, cheerful gifts are selected for each individual.

If you know some family which cannot "buy Christmas" for the kids this year, simply notify the Big Brothers, those kind-hearted men and women who do not want anyone to be unhappy on Christmas day. Give the name, address, age and sex of every child you know and the Big Brothers will give those children presents that will make their little hearts sing for joy.

The queen will be chosen by her popularity as evidenced by the ticket sale to the colorful ball, Mrs. Connerat said.

TWO MORE DIE HERE FROM AUTO INJURIES

Woman, Hit by Bus Sunday, Succumbs at Grady Hospital.

Two more deaths from traffic accidents and near-accidents in Atlanta were reported yesterday when Mrs. Mary Perry, 50, of 169 1/2 Decatur street, and Roscoe Williamson, 32-year-old negro, from Fairburn, died at Grady hospital.

Mrs. Perry was fatally injured by a passenger bus Sunday afternoon. Police investigating the accident absolved the driver. The victim was taken to Grady hospital, where she died shortly before noon yesterday.

Her death was the 55th accident fatality within the city limits of Atlanta since January 1 and the third during the first four days of December. All the fatal accident injuries within the city this month occurred Sunday.

Williamson was fatally injured Monday night in a collision on the Roswell road, away with his friend John Cooper, of Fairburn, who is now in Crawford W. Long hospital, said to be in "fair" condition. Denver Hardy, negro, who was riding with Williamson, is in serious condition at Grady hospital with a fractured skull. Two other negroes riding in the car were dressed after treatment.

LIONS SECRETARY WILL VISIT HERE

Melvin Jones To Address North Georgia Clubs Tomorrow Night.

Melvin Jones, of Chicago, founder and secretary general of Lions International, will arrive tomorrow for a special meeting of Lions clubs in this section. Atlanta Lions will be hosts to Jones and the other 24 clubs in north Georgia at a dinner in the Henry Gandy hotel at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

The idea of forming an international club for business and professional men came to Jones in 1914. He mailed letters to independent clubs all over the country, asking them to consider forming an association. Three years later 20 delegates, representing 50 clubs, met in Chicago. They formed the International Association of Lions Clubs and called a convention to meet at Dallas, Texas, October 9, 1917.

Jones, elected secretary-treasurer. As the association grew, he gave it more of his time, finally giving up his other interests. At present he directs international headquarters. He will speak here tomorrow night in the place of Richard Osenbach, international president, who notified W. E. Wright, president of Atlanta Lions, he would be unable to come as recently announced.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO DR. ROBERT RIDLEY

Prominent Specialist of Atlanta Succumbs at Home in 57th Year.

Dr. Robert B. Ridley, well-known physician and one of the city's most prominent specialists, died early yesterday at his home, 223 Springdale road, N. E., following a heart attack. He was 56 years of age.

Dr. Ridley was a former president of the Fulton County Medical Society and served at various times on the staffs of Georgia Baptist, St. Joseph's, Welsh, Methodist, Piedmont and Scottish Rite hospitals.

He was a native of Atlanta and a practicing physician here for 30 years. Following his graduation from the University of Georgia he took post-graduate work at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

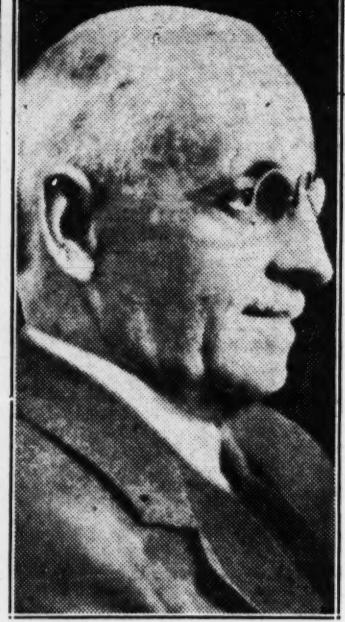

During the World War he served as captain in the medical corps, being stationed at Camp Merritt. He was a member of North Avenue Presbyterian church, a Scottish Rite Mason and a Shriner.

Besides his wife, the former Miss Roberta Render, of LaGrange, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. L. L. Hunnicutt, Mrs. J. A. Hagan, of Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. Robert Troutman and brother, John F. Ridley and Carl H. Ridley.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Spring Hill, with Dr. Richard Orme Flinn officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Youth Held for Patricide.

TAYLORSVILLE, N. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Willard Tengue, 19, was held for superior court without bail after a hearing before Justice of the Peace H. C. Payne today on a charge of murder for the fatal shooting of his father Thanksgiving Day.

2,700 WPA WORKERS STRIKE IN 2 SECTIONS

Walkout of 125,000 in Upper New York Threatened Next Week.

By The Associated Press.

Labor trouble in widespread sections of the United States beset the Works Progress Administration today.

Labor on all manual work projects in Key West, Fla., was suspended by state authorities when 1,500 WPA employees went on strike for higher wages. They quit their jobs yesterday and refused to return to work despite an offer of a 25 per cent increase in wage for a five-day work week instead of four.

In Delta county, Michigan, reduced monthly work hours brought an end to a strike of 1,400 WPA employees at the second annual meeting of the southeastern branch, Society of the American Urological Association, to be held tomorrow and Saturday at Nashville, Tenn.

Many urologists from Atlanta and Georgia will attend the meeting. Dr. Stephen T. Brown, Georgia member of the executive board, said last night announcing the meeting, which will be held in the Noel hotel.

Dr. Brown urged all members of the organization living in this area to attend the sessions. The society's membership includes urologists from Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee and Louisiana. Kentucky will be taken in at the Nashville meeting. Dr. Brown's announcement said.

Queer Antics of 'Bulldog Pups' Astonish Members of Society

By Sally Forth.

IF YOU should see a boy driving a mule cart down Peachtree street on Saturday, don't think that President Roosevelt's farm movement has been localized. It will only be a form of the initiation ceremonies of the Georgia Tech "Bulldog Club." The mule cart drive will end at the S. A. E. house, where the "pups," selected for their outstanding campus activities and all-around sportsmanship, will appear before the Bulldog court.

Membership in the club is one of life's bright moments at college, but surely life's darkest moment comes with the initiation. Collegiate-minded Atlantans are quite familiar with the traditions of the club, which are repeated from year to year with the same degree of hilarity, foolishness and embarrassing moments. This year is no exception to the rule.

It all began on Sunday when the "pups" invited themselves to dinner at the homes of popular Atlanta belles. Their inviting themselves was the last word in more ways than one, for it's an unwritten Bulldog law that the "pups" can't speak a word during dinner, regardless of the number and rapidity of the questions hurled at them. They have to eat with their knives, tuck their napkins beneath their chins, spill glasses of water on the tables and, worst of all, they have to sit in chairs placed with backs to the tables. After dessert is served, they have to ask for a can of syrup and a loaf of bread, and they immediately begin to "dunk" the bread. As a climax to the series of acts of bad etiquette, they have to ask the hostesses, the mothers of their "best girls," to tell them their ages.

Belles in whose homes the "pups" visited were Jane La Poix, Margaret D'Engle, Janet Estes, Georgia Oliver, Ella Murrah, Lynn Nutting, Jane White, Margaret Clarke, Bungle Fuller, Betty Yopp, Margaret Troutman, Nancy Schwab, Martha Hurt, Vickie Wright and Mary Jane Threatt.

A TRIBUTE from Lieutenant General Sir Thomas Astley Cubitt, governor of Bermuda, marked the bicycle breakfast held last Monday in New York at Le Coq Rouge for the benefit of the Children's Welfare Federation. Hope Gatinis, who is related to prominent Atlantans, was chairman of the debutante committee for the benefit, and the governor of Bermuda presented a floral bicycle to Hope on behalf of the charity. Hope is the beauteous blond daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin K. Gatinis, who are well known here and are frequent visitors to Atlanta. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Gatinis.

A NEW ORLEANS debutante of the current season believes in the following "do's and don'ts" for debutantes: (1) Don't ask to be assigned to the same boy for every party. Both you and the boy will have more fun if you get shifted about with other people. (2) Don't think your debut is going to last for years and years, so be nice to all the boys. Next year you might be glad to recover an old friend that you were "snoopy" to this year. (3) Don't stand in the receiving line with a set smile on your face that cracks it and keep saying over and over again: "How perfectly lovely," or the same phrase. Put a little variety and punch into your party. (4) Don't go to the party when the hostess is ready to put out the lights. Both she and your date,

TALMADGE LEAVING FOR NEW YORK TALK

Governor To Speak Over Nationwide Hookup, "Answering Roosevelt."

Governor Talmadge and Hugh Howell, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, will leave today for New York, where tomorrow the Governor will speak over a national hookup of the National Broadcasting Company "answering" the speech here last Friday of President Roosevelt. Chairman Howell will introduce the Governor over the radio.

The Governor said yesterday that he had completed the final draft of his speech, which he has announced will be "Georgia's answer to Roosevelt."

The speech is to be made from 1 to 10:30 o'clock, Atlanta time, tomorrow afternoon.

The Atlanta home-coming celebration for President Roosevelt is described in this week's issue of the Statesman, Governor Talmadge's paper, as "a great event for Georgia."

But in a signed article the Governor renounced his criticism of the national administration.

He termed a federal proposal to issue $900,000,000 in notes and bonds a "funny way to 'whip the devil around the stump.'

"A funny thing—that the government of the United States has to pay 2 1/2 per cent interest, and then date the notes and bonds back about three months, and then let them draw interest when they are sold," he said. "Of course, and other small states of this Union borrow money as low as one-half of one per cent," he commented.

Worthless Hands.

It is far from pleasant to pick up a hand containing not a face card, but it does not follow that the unlucky holder might just as well take a short snap. Aside from the fact that obvious liabilities on the part of one defender must make declarer's play easier, by locating missing honors in the other hand, a lowly nine or ten, properly handled, may become the deciding factor. Incidentally, if one plays for the love of the game (and surely there can be other reasons) an enormous thrill should result from the hand, "worthless" hand. East, in the hand shown below, stayed wide awake despite his horrible "bust," and it was he, not his honor-lader partner, who was able to defeat a vulnerable game contract.

West, dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

The bidding:

West North East South

1 diamond Double Pass 2 spades

Pass 3 spades Pass 4 spades

(final bid)

West led two top diamonds, the second of which South ruffed. Two rounds of spades did the advancing trumps, and then the heart king forced West's ace. Now the diamond queen was led, and ruffed by South. Two rounds of hearts stripped North and South of hearts and diamonds.

At this point declarer mentally reviewed the bidding. He was fairly sure that West could not have held six or more spades, and that he probably would have rebid, indicating a possible "safe" to his partner, when not vulnerable. East, then, was fairly well located with at least four diamonds. If he had held the club king as well, he would not have attempted at least a minor shutdown bid over North's "takeout double." His failure to do so implied that the king was in the West hand, and the fineness of the club queen would be unsuccessful. On this basis only one play would succeed: Throwing the lead to West in order to make him lead from his king up to the queen, or another suit that would afford a ruff and a discard.

So a low club was led from dummy with this objective. As I said before, if East had been led, the coup would have worked. But he wasn't. He probably came up with the ten clubs, and declarer's Machiavellian scheme was ruined. The loss of two club tricks could not be avoided.

Today's question:

Question: You recently wrote an article in which you mentioned the following bidding:

North South

1 club 1 heart

1 spade Pass

Isn't North's spade bid forcing?

How can South pass?

Answer: North's bid of one spade is only semi-forcing, and South may, with a very weak hand, pass. Only the first one-over-one response is absolutely forcing.

Italy's Monarchs Join in Fight Against Sanctions; To Give Rings

New Year's Reception to Diplomats Is Cancelled; All Women to Relinquish Wedding Bands To Aid Duce in Attempt To Weather League Boycotts; Jewelry Expected To Yield $80,000,000.

ROME, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Italy's monarchs showed the people today they stand with Premier Mussolini in his fight against the 52 nations applying sanctions.

Queen Elena wrote Il Duce, promising that the two royal wedding rings would be turned over to the government on December 15, the date set by Italy for a collection of weddings rings throughout the country.

King Victor Emmanuel cancelled the traditional New Year's reception to diplomats and governmental officials. The sovereign thus will avoid shaking hands with the ambassadors of the 52 nations.

Fascists construed these two actions as a definite effort to show the public that the monarchs approve Il Duce's invasion of Ethiopia and his defense against League of Nations penalties.

They said it would be normal for the king and queen to turn over their wedding rings to the women who organized the campaign, which may expect to yield 1,000,000 lire (about $80,000,000). Instead, the queen informed the premier directly.

Queen Elena's ring will be the first given at the Rome ceremony before the "Altar of the Country"—the tomb of the unknown soldier—on December 18.

In communities where there is no monument to the war dead, rings will be offered over the graves of soldiers in cemeteries.

The Prince and Princess of Piedmont followed the example of the sovereigns in presenting their wedding rings to the federal secretary at Makale and along the Takkaze river.

They also contributed a considerable quantity of gold melted down from their personal possessions.

The prince, whose name is Umberto, is the son of the king and queen and her apparent to the throne.

National Council of Church Women Hears Department Chairmen Report

By ANNIE LOU HARDY.

The National Council of Federated Church Women reported yesterday at the second day session of its annual meeting being held at the Druid Hills Golf Club. The session was opened over by Mrs. Irving L. Walker, of Rochester, N. Y., who was elected chairman at the opening session on Yesterday's meeting opened with a devotional given by Mrs. Ralph Ferguson, of Detroit, Mich., a vice president of the National Council. Concluding the session was a report of Mrs. John P. Sala, of Buffalo, N. Y., chairman of missionary and religious education, and of Mrs. Thomas F. Rawlings, of Chicago, chairman of Christian citizenship, the business before the council was continued with Mrs. Irving L. Walker, chairman of Christian social relations, reading her report.

She was followed by Mrs. G. M. Mathes, of Chicago, chairman of legislation; Mrs. L. B. Mather, of Baltimore, chairman of international relations; Mrs. William F. Rothenburger, of Indianapolis, chairman of race relations; Mrs. Arreut F. Burt, of St. Louis, chairman of motion pictures and drama; Mrs. Grace Sloan Overton, of Marion, Ind., chairman of marriage and home; Mrs. J. L. Johnson, of St. Cloud, Fla., chairman of world organization, and Mrs. Walter L. Wenger, of Chicago, chairman of constitution.

A beautifully appointed luncheon was held at noon at the clubhouse, and the business session continued throughout the afternoon.

This morning's session will deal with the formation of council policies as to program, finances, relationships and administration. At 1 o'clock the Atlanta Better Films Committee, of which Mrs. Alva G. Maxwell is president, will sponsor a luncheon in honor of Atlanta Woman's Club. An interesting program has been arranged which includes selections by the Emory Glee Club quartet, and an address by Mrs. Arreut F. Burt, of St. Louis, who is chairman of motion pictures and drama for the National Council. Mrs. Burt, who is an intelligent and magnetic speaker, will speak on the need to present the work of her department.

Mrs. Maxwell requests those desiring to attend the luncheon to call the Woman's Club for reservations.

Mrs. J. N. McEachern, president of the National Council of Federated Church Women, at whose invitation the council is meeting in Atlanta, entertained at dinner last evening at the Hotel Georgia. Mrs. J. N. McEachern Jr., of Tuxedo road, was a prominent guest.

An arrangement of red and white roses formed the central decoration of the lace-covered table and silver candleabra holding gleaming red tapers adorned either end of the table. The hostess was assisted in entertaining her guests by Mrs. T. B. Smith and Mrs. B. F. Cameron.

Georgia Faces L. S. U., Rice, Auburn, Tennessee Next October

SALE OF DUCATS TO SUGAR BOWL AT $40,000 MARK

Selection of L. S. U., T. C. U. Brings Huge Demand for Tickets.

It must be the administration influence. Football's final games will be some more alphabetical soup.

And very exciting soup, too. S. M. U. is going to play L. S. U. in the Rose Bowl. Now there is some alphabet football soup which will have some 90,000 people sitting around the bowl at Pasadena helping themselves.

Just a minute did you say? L. S. U. isn't to play S. M. U. in the Rose Bowl?

Oh, yes they are! And don't you get stuck on one of those smart bets which some of your friends are using as a gag around our town.

L. S. U. is going to play S. M. U. in the Rose Bowl because the legal name of the California institution which Alabama defeated so soundly in the last Rose Bowl game is Leland Stanford University. Which is just as much L. S. U. as Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge.

Any number of the boys have won small sums wagering that L. S. U. would get the Rose Bowl bid. They did. That is to say, Leland Stanford University got it.

The alphabet football soup carries on over to the Sugar Bowl game in which T. C. U. will play L. S. U. That in addition to L. S. U. and S. M. U. in the Rose Bowl. It is almost as confusing as the days when the NRA, WPA, CCC, HOLC and other organizations were being tossed at us daily.

THE VALUE OF A LEADER. Quite a few football teams fail to click because they lack a leader.

looking over the past season Willie Geny, the pass-catching fool at Vanderbilt University, stands out as perhaps the finest leader in Dixie during the past season.

He had something which kept the men going and, what was important, he added to this quality of leadership a very fine performance which included inspiring plays.

When a team begins to go sour it must have a leader on the field to halt the trend. All off which explains the failure of quite a few of our teams with good material. They lacked leadership on the field.

Herb Maffett, who captained one of Georgia's better teams a few seasons ago, was the ideal type. The boys were just about half afraid NOT to play football for him. He never threatened or cajoled. He led them and they followed him.

Jess Neely, now coaching at Clemson, had that same quality. He was Vanderbilt's captain in 1922. He weighed just about 160 pounds but he led the team and the big fellows were afraid not to play for Jess Neely. His team was undefeated, tying Michigan 0 to 0 that year.

Much of Alabama's spark and fire last year was supplied by Dixie Howell and Riley Smith. The team had confidence in them.

"Father" Lumpkin, who never called a signal, was the leader for the Tech team of 1928 which won the national championship in a Rose Bowl victory on January 1, 1929. There must be some leader on the team. It is better to have him captain. But there must be one. And a team without this spark of leadership falters and fades.

AN UNDEFEATED SEASON. No football team which plays a real schedule has a real chance to go through undefeated and untied. Minnesota has done so for two seasons. Princeton came through this year.

But football in the east must have been far below par and Princeton's team probably was the only first-rate team in that section. Minnesota did not meet Ohio State.

There doesn't seem to be much argument but that Bierman has put together probably the finest team in the nation.

There are a few exceptions. But the team which gets itself a schedule, especially one which includes several determined rivals of the same approximate football power, is very, very likely to take a few on the chin during the year. Georgia, for instance, can hardly survive next October. That October stretch is very, very tough, including, as it does, L. S. U., Rice, Auburn and Tennessee.

ROTARY'S GEORGIA PARTY. Rotary of Athens had its annual luncheon for the Georgia football team yesterday.

It was a good party with all the coaching staff and most of the team there. A few were detained by classes at the hour of luncheon.

Athens' Rotary never forgets the team. And there is no reason so to do. This wasn't a bad Georgia team. It faded after the L. S. U. game. But at that it knew football, played good football with the exception of one game, and lost only four games in 10. Vanderbilt, Georgia's football schedule for 1936, complete with the exception of the two opening games, provides one of those semi-annual tasks for the team but a lot of fun and entertainment for the football fans.

It is difficult to see just how Harry Mehre can put together a club which can survive it. But he may. There always is the chance.

The real schedule, after the two opening games, finds the Bulldogs in Baton Rouge on October 10. And that very, very early, as the football practice in 1936 will not begin until September 7. Labor Day being next fall.

RICE AT ATHENS.

The following week finds the Bulldogs back at Athens with Rice of Texas, as their opponents. And that's no easy task. It was Rice which defeated L. S. U. this past season to give the Baton Rouge Tigers their only defeat of the year.

Following the Rice comes Auburn on the very next Saturday. And after Auburn is Tennessee with Rob Neyland back at the helm up there.

That is quite an array of talent to face: L. S. U., Rice, Auburn and Tennessee on successive Saturdays. The Bulldogs of 1936 will long remember those.

November follows with Florida, Tulane, Fordham and Georgia Tech. All of which will not hurt Tech's chances one bit. The Bulldogs must travel to New York on the Saturday before the game at Athens with Tech.

GRUELLING CARD.

It is a tough schedule. It is one almost impossible to conquer without super material. But it is one which puts Georgia's football team in the forefront and one which gives them a chance at some real national recognition.

The 1936 schedule, with two early games to be added, is:

October 10—L. S. U. at Baton Rouge.

October 17—Rice at Athens.

October 24—Auburn at Columbia.

October 31—Tennessee at Athens.

November 7—Florida at Jacksonville.

November 14—Tulane at Athens.

November 21—Fordham at New York.

November 28—Georgia Tech at Athens.

It will be the first time a Texas team has performed in this section, when Rice comes to Athens. Years ago a Texas University team came to Nashville and lost to the Commodores.

GREAT PROGRAM.

Athens will provide four outstanding games next fall which added to Tech's fine home schedule, makes Atlanta and Athens the greatest football center of the 1936 season.

Rice, Tennessee, Tulane and Georgia Tech will appear in stand stadium. It will be the first appearance of Tennessee on Georgia soil in modern times.

Harry Mehre plans to begin spring practice in late January or early February.

Georgia's football prospects for 1936 are for another well-coached, entertaining team. But their material does not warrant any great hopes of slacking through that schedule with victories and no defeats or ties.

CHANCE IS THERE.

But there is a chance. All of which makes it rather exciting.

Foothall coaches are supposed to win games with their teams. But that isn't all. The fact they don't does not mean they have failed. University authorities everywhere are taking a saner view of football. There is less and less of concern "screwing" to day. Which is as it should be.

Warren Five Beats Dixie Team, 50-26

Warren Company upheld its undefeated record in the Atlanta-Dixie Division, 50 to 26, in a game that started with close scoring but ended in a landslide for Warren. Dixie did some good guarding in the first eight minutes to lead Warren by 9 to 2. Bradford tipped one for two points after a free throw to tie the score at 9-all. Pittman took the lead with a free shot and Warren finished to the front, led by 23 to 14 at the half. Red Pittman shot 15 points for high man.

Cudahy also remained undefeated as they dropped the Mohawk Athletics by 34 to 28 in a good game. Although they were trailing by 23 to 7 at the half, the Athletics clicked in the last period and then scored into the lead.

Mike Hendon of Cudahy, shot 14 points to lead his team.

Robinson hit the net for 22 points as Kraft-Phoenix defeated Webb-Martin, 48 to 27. Kraft took an early lead and pulled away to a comfortable score shortly after the beginning of the half. Warlick played a good game at center for Kraft besides shooting 12 points.

Nevland Needs Time To Consider Offer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Major Robert R. Nevland tonight notified the University of Tennessee officials that he "needed a day or two more to consider" a five-year contract as head coach of the Tennessee Volunteers.

Nevland, who made an outstanding record as coach at Tennessee for nine years, indicated in his wife to President J. D. Hoskins that he would accept or reject the new contract before the end of the week.

Nevland is at his army base in the Panama Canal zone. Nevland told friends on a recent visit to Knoxville he would retire from his army duties if he returned to Tennessee to coach.

COLGATE-TULANE.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 4.—(AP)—This city may get the Colgate-Tulane football game next October if a proposed new municipal stadium is built.

Executives of the Junior Chamber of Commerce today said they had obtained the tentative consent of both colleges and of the New York Yankees stadium management to move the game here if facilities are available.

Emory Frosh and Sophs Engage in 'Big Push'

Emory's sophomores Wednesday upheld a seven-year tradition and defeated the freshmen, 2-0, in the school's annual pushball game. As a result of their defeat, the frosh must continue to wear their rat caps until Christmas. The game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds in the history of the game at Emory. The frosh have not lost a game since 1927. The above shot shows the sophomores on their first "touchdown" drive in the third period.

VANDY GETS BID TO ORANGE BOWL

Catholic U. or Villanova
Oppose Commodores
at Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Vanderbilt was tonight chosen as one of the two intersectional football teams invited to compete in Miami's second annual Orange Bowl game New Year's Day.

Chairman W. Keith Phillips, of the Miami committee, said the other team to receive a formal invitation would be selected later tonight or tomorrow.

The choice, he said, had been narrowed to Catholic University, of Washington, D. C., and Villanova, of Villanova, Pa.

Commodores last night received Southeastern Conference approval for the post-season game before accepting the Miami invitation, Phillips said.

TAYLOR IS SOLD TO CHATTANOOGA

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Harry Taylor, Atlanta first baseman, injured early last season and replaced by Alex Hooks, has been purchased by the Chattanooga club of the Southern association, it was announced today.

It was reported $5,000 was involved in a strictly cash deal.

Taylor, who throws and bats left-handed, broke his arm during the opening game and was sold to Syracuse on condition. But he was turned back to Atlanta this fall.

While with Atlanta he batted .282 in 34 games with the Crackers.

The two girls' game will come at 7:30 and 9:10. Druid Hills and Calvary take the first spot and Grant Park and Grace girls the latter.

Tone State, R. L. Doyal and Dr. G. E. Stebbins will be the referees for these games and K. W. K. will score and statistician. These games will play at the club every Thursday during the season except the one between Christmas and New Year's. After this the games will start at 7 o'clock.

Y-Civic Clubs Play
3 Games Tonight

Three games will be played tonight in another round of the Y-Civic ball league, on the Y. M. C. A. court.

The Tri-State Construction Company plays at 7 o'clock.

Calvary Methodist vs. Walthour & Hood, 8 p.m.

Henry Grady vs. Fulton Bag & Cotton Mill, 9:10.

Grant Park vs. Grace girls.

Texas Aggies Nurse Urge To Trip Rose Bowl-Bound S. M. U.

MUSTANGS' FOE THIS SATURDAY HAS GREAT LINE

Homer Norton "Steaming" Boys for Crack at Bell's Team.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Dec. 4.—(P)—A rising urge to score an upset set in Saturday by checking the Rose Bowl-bound Southern Methodist University football machine was nursed tonight at Texas A. & M. College here.

Coach Homer Norton said he feared for a time his Aggies would not be able to "steam up" for S. M. U. after having only recently played A. & M.'s "traditional" game with Texas University.

"But," he added, "they are slowly rising to the mark again—all because they want to beat the Methodist before Coach Mattie Bell and his boys leave for California.

"We may win Saturday. Much will depend on the blocking, tackling and charging of our forwards. That's where we plan to give Southern Methodist a battle."

Aggie hopes for victory in the game here, lie chiefly in the line because the Methodist backfield has a decided edge, in performance to date. A. & M. has won only three of nine games. S. M. U. is unbeaten and untied.

The hopes seem forlorn at that, as the Mustangs have been the strongest in Southwest conference history. But Bill James, chief line aid to Coach Norton, has turned out one of the finest forward walls Aggieland, once noted for sterling line play, has seen in years.

There is little difference in weight between the two lines. The Mustangs, however, have an edge in experience and reserves.

"It's really the choice between two evils for us," Coach Norton said, "as the Mustangs have the most powerful line in this section, but I guess we'll try our luck at running for the most part. That will be our game, and our touchdowns will depend on the success of our running."

The high-flying Methodists have more than mere honor at stake, themselves. They need a victory to win their first Southwest conference championship since 1931.

Wallace Butts Ears Praise As Coach

Wallace Butts, former Madison and later G. M. C. football coach, is hailed as a miracle man in Louisville, Kentucky.

His Male High school team beat Marion, 27 to 13, Thanksgiving Day in one of the greatest upsets in the history of Louisville High school football. And there were more than 15,000 spectators looking on, according to reports from Louisville.

Doped to lose the game by three touchdowns, Male put on one of the most startling football exhibitions ever seen to win the game by a comfortable margin.

NO CHANCE.

And needless to say, Georgia's football circle has no chance of returning Butts to his native state, where he started his great run of championships.

Male High did not win the Louisville or state championship, but Wallace Butts, the one good margin Butts had to offer, was selected coach of Male High after a nation-wide search. The Red was narrowed down to Butts, Dickie Butler, former Decatur High coach, and Flash Suther and Monk Campbell, former University of Alabama stars. Butts was finally selected.

SEEK SERVICES.

And now it is known that the University of Louisville is seeking the services of Butts for head coach.

Parts of the story from Louisville follow:

The master mind who wrought the miracle of Thursday for Male High was Wallace Butts, who was chosen as the Male mentor after a nation-wide search. The boy who ran the team like a machine and the coach was Christopher Katopis, a 17-year-old, 145-pound bundle of dynamite.

"And before the smoke had wafted a foot from the timer's gun, Male High men had Coach Butts on their shoulders.

"They treated him as a conquering hero should be treated, and they intend to do so for some time to come."

Monroe, Richmond To Meet Saturday

The ballyhooed forces of Red Barron's Monroe Aggies football team will meet the Richmond Military Academy Cadets in a post-season game in Augusta next Saturday.

The Aggies, after dropping three straight games to end the season with a 27-0 defeat by Riverside, will attempt to win over Richmond. The Aggies, who easily defeated G. M. C. in early November, The Red Wave won over the Aggies, 12-7, in the last few minutes of their game.

The probable starting lineup for Monroe will be Martin and Gaston, ends; Powell and Wall, tackles; McEachern and Krosse, guards; Bates, center; Mack, quarterback; Jaeger and Kite, Wingate or Beers, halfbacks; and Clegg, fullback.

The Monroe forces starting their last game will be Dan Martin, Tice; Cox; Bill Bates, Chattanooga, and Ossie Kite, College Park.

Future of Sewanee Football Discussed Here by Board of Regents

Members of the board of regents of the University of the South met in Atlanta yesterday and discussed, among other things, the future of football at Sewanee on the mountain top. There was no talk of hiring a nationally-known coach but of taking other steps calculated to improve football at the school. Members of the board of regents are pictured above. They are, seated, left to right, Rev. Charles Clingman, Birmingham; Bishop F. A. Juhan, Florida; Bishop Theodore D.

Bratton, of Mississippi, acting chancellor of the university; Bishop H. J. Mikell, Atlanta; Rev. Bland Mitchell, Birmingham; standing, Rev. Malcolm W. Lockhart, Jacksonville; Dr. Warren Kerny, New Orleans; Dr. F. H. Gailord, Memphis; Dr. B. F. Finney, vice chancellor of Sewanee; Dr. L. Kemper Williams, New Orleans; Judge Arthur Crownover, Nashville; Charles Edward Thomas, Indiana, and Dr. W. E. Baldwin, Cleveland, Ohio. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

DUCKPIN EVENT DRAWS 11 MORE

Eleven more bowlers, equaling the total that had previously entered, signed blanks Wednesday to compete in the southern individual duckpin championship that will be bowled on the local alleys Saturday at 3, 5 and 7 o'clock.

Included in the list of new entries was Bobo Banger, captain of the Atlanta Paper Company team in the Ladies' Commercial league, who is the defending champion of the ladies' contest. Miss Banger upset 1,047 pins in the 10-game ladies' sweepstakes last year to win the title and, to win their first Southwest conference championship since 1931.

Mr. John S. Bick, who won the Thanksgiving Day ladies' sweepstakes with a perfect series of games, signed last night and will strive to win the title in Atlanta.

Eight other ladies, all top-ranking bowlers, signed entry blanks to compete in this southern bowling classic, already giving Atlanta a field of 10 fair pin smashers to compete against the invaders. Jane Bick, Mrs. Carl Tidwell, Helen Modie, Dot Morris, Sarah Garner, Mrs. Hughes, Mary Pearson, Mrs. Estelle Warrington were among the others who signed to bowl.

Ed Glading, president of the Atlanta Duckpin Association, and A. J. Sossong, top average bowler of the city, added their names to the list last night, making a total of nine men entered, or a total of 22 bowlers for both events already in line.

Until then, probably, the general public will not be let in on the secret, if any.

Dr. B. F. Finney, vice chancellor of the University of the South, pre-which finished in second place in the conference, dropped three games. It was one of those years when a lot of college had good teams.

Harry Mehre and his associates survived the shock of the Tech defeat well and are about back to normal. The law of averages was running against them and they were expecting to drop one after six years of no defeats by their old rivals. But it was a shock when it came.

Mehre's mail has been light and kind. The Georgia alumnus evidently recall this same Mehre is the fellow whose teams have brought to Georgia her greatest football glory. There were three letters. The curious thing about them was they were from alumni who had missed the five Georgia victories in the past six years (one game was a tie) and saw the game last week. They complained mildly at never having seen Georgia win from Tech.

Weaver Bridges and Tom Green, Rotarian officials, were in charge of the luncheon. "There is no significance to the fact that I, a mortician, am introducing the coaches," said Weaver Bridges.

THE BEST FOOTBALL STORY.

The best football story of yesterday was one told by Harry Mehre.

It had as its heroes a team of mountaineers who had never been away from home before. They were signed for an opening game by a rich mountain school financed by outside capital.

The visiting mountaineers were awed by the gymnasium. They looked at the showers and the lockers and the exercising apparatus, wide of eye and somewhat visibly impressed.

The coach finally got them into their old, clay-stained uniforms and made them a speech. They were in the richly appointed gym. The coach spoke of how fine it would be to beat this team of pampered athletes who had hot water showers and a warm place to dress.

The coach and the team were all worked up.

"Go out there and get them," shouted the coach, as he yanked open a door.

And the team plunged through the door—into the swimming pool.

There were too many doors for the coach.

Half Million Fish Liberated in State

More than half a million fish have been liberated since spring to stock streams in 17 Georgia counties. Game Commissioner Zack D. Crater said yesterday.

This stock, he said, was taken from the Bowen's Mill state hatchery in Wilcox county. This plant was put in operation April 6 with 850 adult fish. Additional ponds will raise its capacity next year to two and a quarter million fry, the commissioner estimated.

In addition, other hatcheries at Marion, Miller and Fitzgerald are releasing Georgia waters with bream, bass and some white perch.

Counties which shared in stock from the Wilcox county hatchery were Worth, Tift, Dodge, Glynn, Telfair,

TECH, GEORGIA STARS CHOSEN ON STAR TEAM

Mit Fitzsimmons, Frank Johnson on Associated Press All-S. E. C.

By Kenneth Gregory,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

The All-Southeastern football team for 1935, compiled by the Associated Press, in the opinion of coaches and sports writers, presents an entirely new set of stars for this year's honor roll.

No representative on the first eleven has had his name entered on the all-star lineup, but five standout junior students with promising futures for 1936 were voted places along with six seniors.

Louisiana State University, champion of the Southeastern Conference and the only unconquered eleven among the 13 teams, gained three positions. Alabama and Auburn two each, and one each went to Georgia, Mississippi State, Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech.

The first team, with a line averaging around 198 pounds and a backfield running better than 186 pounds, stacks up as a mighty array possessed of great team speed, power, deadly blocking, tackling and charging, wonderful passing and punting and a quartet of fine running backs.

A total of 84 coaches and sports writers participated in the poll and to Riley Smith, L. S. U., center, William Tinsley, Auburn, and Frank Johnson, Georgia Tech, were the only unanimous choice, although several other players won their positions with votes to spare.

Here follows the team, showing the number of ballots for each player:

End—William Geny, Vanderbilt, 88 (senior); Tackle—James Whately, Alabama, 48 (senior); Guard—Frank Johnson, Georgia, 41 (senior); Center—Walter Gilbert, Auburn, 87 (junior); Guard—Middleton Fitzsimmons, Georgia Tech, 29 (junior); Tackle—Haygood Patterson, Auburn, 54 (senior); End—Gaynell Tinsley, Louisiana State, 65 (junior); Quarterback—Riley Smith, Alabama, 84 (senior); Halfback—James Fotherree, Louisiana State, 42 (junior); Halfback—William Criss, Louisiana State, 39 (junior);

All four members of the backfield of the mythical eleven are exceptionally good ball carriers and blockers that any coach would receive gratefully. They are close to being the one-backfield in road.

In bed since the mishap, Fotherree may be able to view the Friday game from the stands.

Team physicians said Charley Baker, senior halfback who suffered a knee injury at the Boston University game last week, will not be in shape for play against Oglethorpe.

The Tigers lost every game this past season.

It's all a deep, dark secret except that:

BETTER MATERIAL. Hick Clark is pretty sure to stay as head coach and he probably will be blessed with a wider variety of material in the future, and, also, that Sewanee, while opposed to "hiring men for athletic services," may favor helping athletes in other ways.

The pleased consequences of the decision by board members seemed to imply that soon Sewanee would be a force to reckon with again on southern gridirons. But that, of course, is only a guess.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS. Dec. 4.—(P)—The average price of middling cotton today, 10 cents lower; government markets was 11.98 cents a pound; government subsides on today's sale 0.02 cents a pound.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Spot cotton closed steady and 15 points lower at 12.25c.

BY FRED WILLIAMS.

NEW ORLEANS. Dec. 4.—(P)—Cotton lost more than half of Tuesday's gains today as prices, after being under pressure the entire session, ended from 13 to 19 points lower.

Poor cables and reports that the government might sell some of its loan cotton induced the lower trend. Realizing sales and profit-taking also appeared in the market in the afternoon and precipitated the decline.

Prices hesitated about following American markets higher on the new AAA crop program. Due higher on New Orleans, the English market opened easy and then sold off in late trading.

A remark credited to Chester Davis, administrator of the agricultural adjustments, and the current secretary of state, cotton the government should release around 1,000,000 bales of loan cotton to the trade brought out considerable selling. Speculative interests evidently were of the opinion that the market may be able to absorb the present crop at current price levels, but release of loan cotton might change the picture.

The latest estimate of the government next Monday attracted considerable attention in the trade today. Private estimates are beginning to appear, and nearly all cases are mentioning figures several hundred thousand bales under the crop reporting board's last estimate of 11,141,000 bales.

Bad weather in the northwestern part of the belt is believed to have cut down the total yield materially since last month.

NEW YORK LINT DOWN; CLOSES, BARELY STEADY

NEW YORK. Dec. 4.—(P)—Cotton was reactionary, finishing at the low levels after somewhat irregular swing. He close was barely steady at net decline of 9 to 10 points.

Initial prices were 7 to 10 points lower in response to easy Liverpool cables, hedging and scattering liquidation. Buying power created by the acreage program announcement seemed to have been its course. Thus far, the demand today was chiefly from the trade on scale-down orders.

Further selling of January attributed to pool account had unsettling effect on sentiment.

Exports today 31,204, making a total of 2,670,151 for the season. Port receipts 27,600. United States port stocks, 2,941,139.
